FOREWORD

When this work was started many years ago, the compiler had one Bryan family in mind, namely that of a William Bryan who removed from Northumberland County, Pennsylvania to Orange County, North Carolina prior to the Revolutionary War. It rapidly assumed such proportions how ever that these several branches, all probably having a common ancestor, and all taking an active part in colonial affairs, have been included.

Only through the interest of many descendants of these early Bryans have records been collected. For the Needham Bryan records I am indebted to Miss. Alma Burgamy of Birmingham, Ala, To the late Mrs. William Alanson Bryan (1916) for the line of William Bryan, brother of Morgan Bryan. To Mrs. Pauline Bryan Wild and her niece, Mrs. John Ewing Price of Seattle, Wash. (both decd) for much of interest on the Morgan Bryan line.

To Mr. Carter R. Bryan and the late Gordon M. Ash for the line of William Bryan of Bucks County, Pa., which dates back to Engelbert I, Seigneur de Brienne. Also to the late Warren Ely of the Bucks County Historical Society. Mrs. J. S. Claypoole of New Bern, N. Car, aided the work materially by research in the Court records of Craven County, N. Car. Also the courtesy of county clerks in many states deserves mention. The late Edward Bryan, author of 'Brianiana', gave permission to use the Saxon and Plantagenet lines.

The Virginia Bryan Marriages were published in the National Genealogical Quarterly, June 1950. The North Carolina Bryan Marriages were published in the Quarterly, Sept. 1953.

While some of these records were published in 1921, in Volume 2, of Notable Southern Families (Armstrong), many have never before been published and much of interest has been added, but more information is needed on many families,

O'BRYAN

The family of O'Bryan, one of the most ancient and noble in the Kingdom of Ireland, derives its descent from Hiberius (Heber), eldest son of Milesius, King of Spain, who was born in Egypt and with his brother, Heremon, began their reign jointly over Ireland in the year of the world 2704.

Hiberius, being killed the next year by his said brother, leaving as his successor, Conmaol (Conveal), who fought twenty-five battles against the family of Heremon, and prevailing in every one, was the first absolute monarch of this line.

From him who was slain after a reign of thirty years are reckoned fifty-three persons to Cass, the first King of Thomond in direct line of succession as Monarchs of Ireland and Kings of Thomond. (From the Peerage Of Ireland, by John Lodge, Deputy Keeper of the Records, 1754).

Eoghan or Owen Nior or Mogh Nuadhot, King of the southern half of Ireland, which included Desmond, Thomond and Leinster, whose son, Oiloill Olum, disputed ruler of Desmond and Thomond, had two sons, Eoghan (O'hogan-Hagen) and Cormac Cass. To the first, who was the elder, he left the Province of Desmond; to Cormac Cass, Thomond. The supreme honor, king of Munster to be held alternately by their descendants. (de Alten, History of Ireland, Vol. I, p 127).

BRIEN BOIROIMHE (BORU)

From a History of Ireland by the Abbe Mac Geoghegan (1698-1750) Written in French, two translations, one by Patrick O'Kelly, and a later and fuller one by John Mitchell. This account is from the translation by John Mitchell, pp 229-231.

"In the reign of Congal, Monarch of all Ireland, Brien, afterwards surnamed Boiroimhe (Boru), succeeded his brother Mahoun (who had been killed by robbers), 956 A.D., on the throne of Munster. Sanguine hopes were already entertained of the valor of this prince. Since the time that he commanded the provincial army under his brother Mahoun, his exploits against the Danes were numerous,  He began by chastising the assassins of his brother, Mahoun, and it is asserted that he won twenty-five battles against the Danes, the last of which was that of Clontarf. ***

"Brien, surnamed Boiroimhe, son of Kennedy and grandson of Lorcan, of the race of Heber-Fionn, was declared Monarch of the whole Island in 1002 A. D.  He was honorably received at Armaugh by Maelmury or Marion, Arch Bishop of that See, on whom he bestowed a considerable sum of money to repair the church. During his stay at Armaugh he was visited by Hugh O'Neil, King of U1ster, and other princes of that province, who acknowledged him as monarch.

"Having settled the affairs of U1ster, Brien repaired to Tara and like his predecessors, convened an assembly of the Bishops and Nobles, in which he was solemnly crowned.  He afterwards enacted several laws respecting the government and public welfare. He made the Danes restore all church property they had usurped and rebuild the churches and monasteries they had destroyed, re-established the universities and public schools and founded new ones which he liberally endowed. Lastly by his generosity he encouraged professors of all Sciences, so that literature which had been in a measure banished from the Island by the invaders and barbarians, began to flourish anew under this Monarch, . Brien having settled the religious affairs of the state, next turned his thoughts toward the temporal government, He restored to the old proprietors the possessions of which they had been stripped by the Danes; raised fortresses in every direction in which he placed garrisons for the public safety; repaired the roads, built causeways through the kingdom and bridges over the deep rivers and marshes, which had been before impassable.

"The Assembly of Tara having terminated, Brien left Meath and repaired to Kee-Cordadh, near Killaloe, on the banks of the Shannon, where he generally held his court and there enjoyed for some time the sweets of peace, He was distinguished as well for the greatness of his mind as for his military exploits. The great concourse of princes and nobles who attended his court: added much to its brilliancy. Peace was at length interrupted by Mac-Murchad, King of Leinster, The Monarch, alarmed at these movements, determined to prepare for the consequences. He assembled all the Munster troops and his allies about 30,000 men, the chief command of which he gave to his son Murrough. This did not however prevent him from assisting in person, although eighty-eight years of age. The army began their march toward Dublin where the enemy awaited them, in the plain of Cluon-Tarbh (Clontarf) two miles from the city.

Bryan Book

"This battle took place on Good Friday, the twenty-third of April, 1014. Though desperate and sanguinary, it was glorious for the Monarch, who gained a complete victory over over the enemy. The Monarch was killed by a retreating band of Danes, commanded by Bruadad, chief of the Danish fleet.

"Murrough O'Brien, the General and his son Turlough, likewise fell victims to their love of country. The bodies of the Monarch and his son, Murrough, were deposited in the town of Swords, six miles from Dublin, from whence they were moved to Armagh by the order of the Archbishop of that See, Maelmury, and interred in the Metropolitan Church".

History records the names of five sons of Brien Boru, but not the name of their mother. A second wife (?) Gormflaith, daughter of Murrough Mac-Finn, was not the mother of his children, The sons were:

Morrough, killed 1014 at Clontarf, where he was General of his father's forces. His son Thurlogh, aged fifteen, also killed, Thadeus, who should have succeeded his father, but was killed by his brother, Donnough.

Donnough, who succeeded his father after having his brother Thadeus (or Tieve) put to death,

Connor

Flann

There were four kings of this Kine.

1. Brien Boiromhe (Boru).

2. Donnough, who succeeded his father after having his brother, Thadeus, the rightful heir, put to death. He was King of Munster and part of Ireland, but was unable to reduce the rest to obedience. (Mitchell, p 234). He had two sons, Donald and Murchad. He was finally dethroned by the nobles of the Kingdom and reduced to the rank of a private individual when his part in the death of his brother Thadeus became known. He made a pilgrimage to Rome, where he spent the rest of his life in St. Stephen's Monastery.

3. Terlough, son of Thaddeus, succeeded his Uncle Donnough, about 1063. He proved himself worthy of his illustrious ancestor. (Mitchell, p 239). He enacted wise laws and governed his subjects with justice. he died at Kean-Cora, in the seventy-seventh year of his his age and the fourteenth of his reign, 1077.

4. Mortough, son of Terlough, succeeded his father, (sometimes called Moriertach) in 1079, His mother, according to Keating, was Kealrach, daughter of Vi-Eine. he died March 1120, the last King of his race. From him are descended the illustrious Houses of the O'Briens.

Bryan Book

Diarmuid O'Brien, brother of Mortough, the last King, is called the first of the Hereditary Princes of Thomond. After they ceased to be kings there were twelve of these Hereditary Princes of Thomond, afterwards Earls of Thomond. They ruled continuously until 1550 and gave off many collateral lines. The last Hereditary Prince was Concovar, or Cornelius, (according to Nichols) the eldest brother of Murrough O'Brien. This Murrough O'Brien was created Earl of Thomond in 1543. His eldest son was given the Inchiquin titles and estates.

Terdelach O'Brien, the sixteenth generation from Brien Boiromhe, Hereditary Prince of Thomond, was the father of Murrough O'Brien, first Earl of Thomond. The only mention of Terdelach is in a treaty of June 1523. he died in the year 1527 and was succeeded by his son Concovar, the last Hereditary Prince. However in the year 1543 (Mitchell, p 433) Henry VIII conferred the title, Earl of Thomond on Murrough O'Brien for life and at his death it was to go to Nonnough, son of his elder brother, Concovar (Connor or Comelius). Donnough, was before the death of his uncle, created Baron of Ibrican, and Murrough obtained for his son and his descendants the title Baron of Inis-hy-quin (Inchiquin) in the County of Clare.

Murrough O'Brien, who was created Earl of Thomond by Henry VII, having d. in 1551, (Mitchell, p 444) his nephew, Donnough, Baron of Ibrican, took possession of the title and estates of Thomond according to the compact made between them by the King, but as this title was to end with Donnough, he surrendered his patent to Edward VI, who conferred a new one on him by which the title, Earl of Thomond was confirmed to him and his male heirs forever,

He was soon after killed by his brother Donald, who was aided by his brother Terlough. Donald d. in 1553 and Terlough claimed the chieftaincy. Donnough's wife was Helen, daughter of Peter Butler, Duke of Ormonde and their son Connor succeeded to the title and estates and was supported by the English government. The English title, Karl, offended his Uncle Donnough and many of the Irish Princes and for many years there was bitter warfare".

This ends the direct historical record of the house of Thomond. Of the Inchiquin branch almost nothing is given in history and it would take some genealogical research abroad to complete the record or line of descent from, any one of these 'Hereditary Princes'.

The O'Brien family is given in the 'Peerage Of Ireland!' or a Genealogical History of the Present Nobility of That Kingdom, by John Lodge, Deputy Keeper of the Records, published 1754.

SIR FRANCIS BRYAN

Sir Francis Bryan, born 1490, died Feb, 2, 1550. He was created a knight banneret, Sept. 27, 1547. In 1548 was appointed Governor General of Ireland and in 1549 was made Lord Chief Justice, He was an author, diplomat and statesman; a personal friend of Henry VIII, who jokingly called him "his one-eyed Vicar of Hell".

He was a grandson of Edward III in the sixth generation on the maternal line and equally royally descended on the paternal line. He descended in the eighth degree from E'Ogan or Hogan of the reigning house of Ireland through the marriage of Guy de Bryan to Ann, daughter of Oh'ogen or Hogan.

Sir Francis was the son of Sir Thomas Bryan and wife Margaret, daughter of Sir Humphrey Bouchier. Sir Thomas was knighted by Henry VII in 1497; was "Knight of the body", at the opening of the reign of Henry VIII and served repeatedly on the Commission of the Peace for Buckinghamshire, where the family property was settled.

The grandfather of Francis, Sir Thomas Bryan, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas from 1471 until his death in 1500, is believed to be a descendant of Sir Guy de Bryan of Walwyn's Castle, County Pembroke, and Tor Brian, Devon. On Dec. 31, 1369, Sir Guy was made a Knight of the Garter; he married in 1349, Elizabeth, daughter of William Montague, first Earl of Salisbury; he died 1390 and was entombed at Tewkesbury.

Through his mother, Lady Margaret Bryan, Sir Francis was a descendant of the house of Plantagenet. She was governess to the Princess Elizabeth (See The Complete Peerage, Vol. II, p 363) and in her "Queens of England", Agnes Strickland says that much of the greatness of Queen Elizabeth was attributed to the training received at the hands of Lady Bryan.

Educated at Oxford, Sir Francis received his first official appointment in 1513 as Captain of the Margaret Bonaventure, a ship in the retinue of Sir Thomas Howard; in 1516 he became the King's Cup-bearer and in 1520 attended Henry at the Field of the Cloth of Gold. In 1528 he was sent by Henry to Rome to obtain the papal sanction for his divorce from Catharine of Aragon; in 1539 he was one of the King's household deputed to meet Ann of Cleves near Calias, on her way to England. At the funeral of Henry VIII he was assigned the chief place as "Master of the henchmen".

Sir Francis married first, Philippa Montgomery, daughter of Sir John Montgomery, of an ancient and powerful English family.

Sir Francis Bryan

Sir Francis Bryan, 1490-1550, married secondly Joan (Fitzgerald) Butler, Dowager Countess of Ormonde, daughter and heiress of James Fitzgerald, tenth Earl of Desmond, one of the most powerful families in Munster and all Ireland. By this marriage he rendered his government a rather curious service, In 1543, James Butler, ninth Earl of Ormond, an Irish noble whose powerful influence was obnoxious to the government at Dublin, d. in London. His widow, Joan, sought to marry her relative, Gerald Fitzgerald, heir of the 15th Earl of Desmond. To prevent this marriage which would have united the leading representatives of the two chief Irish noble houses, Sir Francis was induced to prefer a suit to the lady Joan.

In 1548 he married the widowed Countess and was shortly nominated Lord Marshall of Ireland, (Mitchell, p 440; D'Alten, Vol. 2, p 7) and arrived in Dublin with his wife in November, 1548.

This marriage united the scions of two houses, the one English, the other Irish. They had issue, one son -

Sir Francis Bryan II, born 1549, who married Ann Smith, daughter of Sir William Smith, a prominent land holder of County Clare, and because of his vast land holdings (both paternal and maternal) was called Prince Bryan ... and regarded as the true successor to the Earldom.

William Smith Bryan, his son, was called Prince William of Ireland by his followers. During the Puritan rebellion he attempted to regain the throne of Ireland and was deported by Cromwell in 1650. His son, Francis Bryan, returned to Ireland to recover his vast estates, but was so persecuted by the English government, that he fled to Denmark; there he married Sarah Brinker, a cousin of the Dutch Princes of Orange and was in Ireland with William of Orange in 1689, and was standard bearer to William at the battle of the Boyne on Aug. 12, 1690. he died in Ireland in 1694,

It has been said that the family tree of the O'Briens bends beneath the weight of its royal ancestry. "On every branch hangs a Monarch" was almost too true at one time. Kings of Thomond and Munster, Earls of Inchiquin and Barons of Tadcaster.

The monarch, Brien Boru, killed at the battle of Clontarf, 1014, is said to be responsible for the name Brien as a surname. The "O" meaning the son of, or descendant of Brien and no matter what the spelling of the name, they are all the same family, from Machias O'Brien of Maine, with his six fighting sons, to Joseph Bryan, the English planter who settled in South Carolina prior to 1700. Pennsylvania, Virginia and North Carolina received their quota of immigrants of the name. Three main lines, all with the same story of political intrigue in the old country.

Irish Lineage Of Lady Joan Fitzgerald

(Wife of Sir Francis Bryan)

Lady Joan was of the family of the Geraldines, who were among the most distinguished of the adventurers who settled in Ireland in the time of Henry II. The family was founded by Maurice Fitzgerald, and there were two main branches, one in Leinster, the other in Munster, whose heads were the Earles of Desmond.

WILLIAM SMITH BRYAN

William Smith Bryan, the first of the Morgan Bryan line in Virginia, was the son of Sir Francis Bryan II of Ireland, and for taking the side of Ireland against Cromwell, was deported to the colony of Virginia in 1650. He settled in Gloucester County, Va. and is said to have had eleven sons and three daughters. We have only definite knowledge of one son, Francis, although Morgan Bryan in Norfolk County in 1693 is thought to be a son.

Francis Bryan, eldest son of William Smith Bryan, was born about 1630. He returned to Ireland in 1667 and endeavored to recover his hereditary titles and estates, but was so persecuted by the English government that he sought refuge in Denmark, There he married Sarah Brinker, a cousin of the Dutch Princess of Orange. His son MORGAN was born in Denmark in 1761. Later he returned to Ireland, where his son William was born in 1685. These two sons came to America, both remaining awhile in Pennsylvania.

Francis Bryan is said to have been in Ireland with William of Orange in 1689 and was standard bearer to William at the battle of the Boyne, on Aug. 12, 1690. he died in Ireland in 1594.

The arrival of Morgan Bryan in Pennsylvania has been placed as November 10, 1695, one year after the death of his father, but nothing is known of Morgan Bryan from his arrival until the record of his marriage in 1719, to Martha Strode, in Chester County.

From Cartmell's "Shenandoah Valley", we find that the Alexander Ross grant, in which Morgan Bryan was interested, was dated October 28, 1730, not to exceed 100,000 acres, and that his settlers were slow in securing their grants. Morgan first appears 22 Nov. 1734 for 2,373 acres. This tract is north of Winchester and Ross sold and conveyed from this tract, 2 acres to Joseph Bryan, son of Morgan, recorded 13 Apr. 1744 in Frederick County.

At the April term of Court, 1744, in the first mention of a jury, is among others that of Morgan Bryan.

In the History of Orange County, Va., by W. Scott (p 49) we find that "In 1739, William Williams, Gent. and Presbyterian minister, certified his intention to hold meetings at his own plantation and that of Morgan Bryan".

Dr. J. D. Bryan in his history says:

"After Morgan Bryan came to years of maturity he left his parents in Ireland and came to America. The records show that Morgan Bryan lived in Chester County, Pennsylvania, where in 1719 he married Martha Strode. Several children were born there, then in 1728-30, he with Alexander Ross and others received a grant of 100,000 acres of land on the Potomac and Opeckon Rivers in Virginia, and settled near the present site of Winchester. Here the rest of his children were born and Martha Bryan d. in 1747. After her death he sold his interests in Virginia and in the fall of 1748 moved his family to North Carolina and settled in the forks of the Yadkin River, then Anson County, later (1753) Rowan. The children of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan were: Joseph, Samuel, James, John, Morgan, Mary, Elinor, William, Thomas and Sarah".

Bryan Book

Of these, Joseph remained in Virginia for a few years. Sarah and Mary d. prior to their father.

Archibald Henderson, in his book, "The Conquest of The Old South West" (Century Co.) says, "The two streams of the Uistermen, the greater through Philadelphia, the lesser through Charleston, which poured into the Carolinas, quickly flooded the back country. The former occupied the Yadkin Valley, the latter the Waxhaws and the Anson County region to the north west.  The former, who had resided in Pennsylvania long enough to be good judges of land, shrewdly made their settlement along rivers and creeks.  Shortly prior to 1735, Morgan Bryan, his wife Martha and eight children, together with other families of Quakers settled upon a large tract of land on the north west side of the Opeckon River, near Winchester. A few years later they moved up the Valley to the Big Lick in present Roanoke County, intent upon pushing westward to the very outskirts of civilization. In the Autumn of 1748, leaving behind his brother William, who had followed him to Roanoke County, Morgan Bryan moved with his family to the forks of the Yadkin River".

In Vol. 5, p 3 of the North Carolina State and Colonial Records, the Diary of Bishop Spangenburg, the renowned Moravian missionary is given. He came to America from London in 1751, with Capt. William Bryant, the famous mariner. In his Diary (1753) mention is made of the fertile lands taken up by Morgan Bryan. One of the twelve men sent out in 1753 by the Moravians to follow the trail from Bethlehem, Pa. to North Carolina, the Rev. Bernhard Geube, says their large wagons had trouble crossing one of the steep mountains and that people had told us this hill was most dangerous and that we would scarcely be able to cross it, for Morgan Bryan the first to travel this way, had to take the wheels off his wagon and carry it piecemeal to the top and had been three months on the journey from the Shenandoah to the Elkin.

Daniel Bryan's Narrative, Draper Mss. 22c6(22); Morgan Bryan moved his family from the Opeckon to the Big Lick at the head of the Roanoke River, but not liking the place, he with his sons, all grown, moved to North Carolina and settled in the forks of the Yadkin River, then a frontier, 60 miles from the nearest settlement. The sons all became hunters. They all settled in the same neighborhood and all had choice pieces of land in that section, afterwards called Bryan Settlement.

All early biographers of the Bryan family stated that Martha, wife of Morgan d. in Virginia in 1747, but in Augusta County records, Vol. 3, p 340, we find that on Sept. 27, 1753, Edward Hughes, Squire Boone and James Carter of Rowan County, North Carolina, were appointed to take acknowledgment of Martha, wife of Morgan Bryan.

The Church Records collected by the Rev. John D. Shane and deposited with the Presbyterian Historical Society, Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia, has the following:

"Martha Bryan deceased Aug. 29, 1762"

"Morgan Bryan deceased Apr. 3, 1763; Easter Sunday".

Joseph Bryan

Joseph Bryan, the oldest son of Morgan and Mary (Strode) Bryan, born 1720 in Pennsylvania, d. 1805 in Jefferson County, Ky. The first deed of the Alexander Ross Grant recorded in Virginia is for 214 acres to Joseph Bryan. He is found in many deeds in Augusta County and in June 1755, his wife is named as Alice in the sale of 500 acres to Jacob Chrisman. (Augusta County Records, Vol. 3, p 339). This was probably the last sale before leaving for North Carolina. He lived on the Opeckon on the south side of the south branch. He visited Kentucky in 1797 in company with his brother Samuel, but both returned to North Carolina. Draper Mss. 19c149, has this note - "Old Joseph Bryan (Mrs. Daniel Boone's father) in 1798 rented Well's Station in Shelby County from Enoch M. Boone: in a year or so he and his family, two sons and a son-in-law bought land at Floyd's Fork in Shelby County and settled there, where he died about 1805. He had been some little time in the County when he settled at Well's Station; brought Negroes, teams and money with them from Carolina". The Draper Mss. also mentions "Joseph Bryan, half brother to Mrs. Daniel Boone", Same, 6s288-9, "Joseph Bryan settled after the Revolution in Shelby County, Ky. He was living in 1803 and could not have long survived, his first wife, the mother of Mrs. Daniel Boone, d. when the latter was quite young. Edward Boone, a brother of Daniel, married Martha, a daughter of Joseph".

The will of Joseph Bryan is in Jefferson County, Ky. (wills, 1, p 158) dated Nov. 20, 1504, prov. Mar. 4, 1805; names wife Alice; sons, Samuel, John and Joseph; daughter Rebecca Boon, Martha Boon, Mary Howard, Susanna Hinkle, Aylee Howard, Phoebe Forbis, Charity Davis, Eleanor Adams; grandsons, Noah, Jacob and Wilah Adams; grand daughter Aylee Adams, The executors were the sons Joseph and John Bryan. Wit. by Edward Cox Sr., David Enochs, Ephraim Hampton.

Rebecca Bryan, married Daniel Boone, Aug. 14, 1756, in North Carolina.
Martha Bryan, married Edward Boone, probably in N. Car.
Phoebe Bryan, married James Forbis, Mar. 10, 1779, in N. Car.
Elsey Bryan, married Joshua Howard, Mar. 7, 1789, in N. Car,
Charity Bryan, married John Davis, Dec. 8, 1797, Shelby County, Ky.

Rebecca Bryan, after the death of her mother, made her home with her grandparents, went to North Carolina with the family and was married to Daniel Boone, Aug. 14, 1756, probably before her father arrived in North Carolina, hence the statement by early biographers of the family that she was the daughter of Morgan Bryan. She was born Feb. 7, 1739 and d. near Marthasville, Missouri, July 1812.

Daniel and Rebecca (Bryan) Boone had issue:

Joseph Bryan Jr. was born 1750 in Virginia, child by the second wife of Joseph, Alice. He went with his father to North Carolina and accompanied Boone into Kentucky and is mistakenly called "one of the brothers" in early accounts of Bryan's Station. In the account of the Indian Skirmishes (Cane Run, 1780) in Draper Mss. 22c16, George Bryan says, "Joseph Bryan, son of old Joseph and half brother of Daniel Boone's wife was of the other seven".

Among the papers of Col. Robert Patterson, founder of Lexington, is the preemption warrant of Joseph Bryan Jr., obtained Dec. 4, 1732 and entered with the surveyor of Fayette County as follows. "Jan, 12, 1780, Joseph Bryan Jr. on account of raising corn in the country in 1776, obtained from the Court a certificate for preemption and settlement of 1490 acres of land adjoining Maxwell on the south and McConnell on the east including a big spring on the north side of Cane Run and up the Run for quantity".

Entered Jan. 17, 1780 and sold to John Bradford, who sued Francis Patterson (father of Col. Robert) for interference and was in turn sued for the same reason. No record of descendants of Joseph Bryan Jr. found.

Samuel Bryan

Samuel Bryan, second son of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan was born in Pennsylvania, 1721-2 and d. 1798 in Rowan County, N. Car. His wife was Elizabeth McMahon. He was the only son of Morgan Sr. who did not aid the colonies in the Revolutionary War. He raised a company of 800 men and tendered them to the Governor to fight for the King. After the war he was court marshaled and his property confiscated. (See Wheeler's History of North Carolina). After the war he made a trip to Kentucky but did not stay.

Col. Nathan Boone says of hin, (Draper Mss. 6s288) "He was about six feet tall, a spare muscular man, quite intelligent, more so than any other Bryan known to me, Never moved to Kentucky but d. in North Carolina in 1798", His will (Rowan County Wills, Book D, p 121-2) dated Aug. 15, 1798, names wife Elizabeth and the following children:

Samuel Bryan, m. Rachel Jack, Mar. 10, 1779.
Margaret Bryan, m. John Ellis, Mar. 11, 1779; to Kentucky.
Morgan Bryan, said not to have married.
Martha Bryan, m. William Logan.
Elinor Bryan, said to have married Stanley Chaffin.
Ann (Nancy) Bryan m. Thomas Enochs, Oct. 16, 1736.
Susanna Bryan, ma cousin, Joseph Bryan. (Son of John).
Sarah Bryan, m. Morgan Linville, a cousin.
Elizabeth Bryan, m. Oliver Hampton.
Thezia Bryan never married.

Rumples History of North Carolina, p 185; Military Affairs. "In the company from the forks of the Yadkin, a strange scene was once enacted. Captain Bryan of that company was disaffected, while the Lieutenant, Richmond Pearson was a Whig. On the muster a dispute arose upon political matters between these two officers and the company decided that this great national question should be decided by a fair fist fight between the captain and the lieutenant and the company should go with the victor.  Lieutenant Pearson succeeded in giving Captain Bryan a sound thrashing. The Forks Company after that became zealous Whigs, while the crowd from Dutchman's Creek followed Captain Bryan and became Tories. Captain Bryan became a confirmed loyalist and was the notorious Col. Bryan, who according to Dr. Carruthers, on the spur of the moment collected 800 Tories in the forks of the Yadkin and marched them off to Anson Court House to the British. Col. Bryan was afterwards tried by the courts of North Carolina for disloyalty to his country but as no act of inhumanity was proved against him and no charge was made against him except being in arms against his country", etc. Also see "Loyalists in American Revolution," Sabine. "Bryan, Samuel of North Carolina, p 272. Authorized by Governor Martin, Jan. 1776, to erect the King's Standard to enlist and array in arms the loyal subjects of Rowan County and to oppose all rebels and traitors. In 1750 with a corps of 890 Loyalists, who abandoned their homes to avoid prison and death, after Moore's defeat by Rutherford, he marched towards South Carolina and arrived unmolested at Cheran Hill, here he joined the detachment of British under McArthur.

Many had not seen their families for months but had lived in the woods to avoid the parties of Whigs that were in constant pursuit at this time. Three of his companies were nearly annihilated by the Whig Major Davis, near Hanging Rock. Soon after Sumpter fell upon the remainder of his troops and put them to flight. They dispersed as soon as pressed but re-assembled, Bryan's Corps was in the rear division under the orders of Lord Rawdon at the battle of Camden. The estate of Col. Bryan was confiscated in 1779. The excitement against him was intense. Our loyalist was indeed an unfortunate man since it seems his conduct gave serious offense to his own party as well as to the Whigs. In a letter to Sir James Wright, dated in London, March 1783, Lord Cornwallis states that "The premature rising at Ransom's, Col. Bryan's junction with us in South Carolina, directly contrary to my recommendation, with the defeat of Ferguson at King's Mountain, occasioned the ruin of many families and furnished pretexts to exercise cruelties on individuals to a degree neither believed nor conceived in England".

James Bryan

James Bryan, son of Morgan and Martha (Strode), served in the Colonial Troops in the Royal American Regiment of North Carolina, A part of this service was in the Province of South Carolina for which he received pay. N. Car. State & Colonial Records, Vol. 5, pp 971-984.

On Nov. 7, 1775, the Committee of Safety of Rowan County directed the chairman to write James Bryan to have the militia at the forks of the Yadkin River elect officers, (Same, Vol. 10, p 312).

He was a member of the N. Car. House of Burgesses, 1778 (Same, Vol. 12, p 699. On Dec. 23, 1778, he was appointed Justice of the Peace by order of the Council. (Same, Vol. 13, p 992).

In 1779 he went to Kentucky with his brothers. They all served in Capt. John Holder's Company of Madison County Militia: (Collin's History of Kentucky, Vol. 1, p 12). That same year they established Bryan's Station. (Filson Club Pub., No. 12, p 79).

James Bryan was commissioned Lieutenant by the State of Virginia and commanded a detachment of Kentucky *Militia. (See Va. Rev. Soldiers, Vol. 1, p 69). When the other Bryans returned to North Carolina in 1780, James remained in the Station at the time of the siege. (See Register, Kentucky State Hist. Soc., Vol. 5, No.1).

John Bryan

John Bryan, son of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan, born 1727 in Pennsylvania, d. Mar. 12, 1782, at his home near New Market, Randolph County, N. Car. He was a Captain in the North Carolina Militia (See Heitman's Officers of the Revolution) and was killed by a band of Tories under Fanning, at his own door while home on furlough. His wife was Frances Battle and it is said they had a large family, but a complete record of his children has not been found.

J. A. Blair, in his History of Randolph County, p 49, says of the village of New Market, "This is an old settled place and was the home of Captain John Bryan, a Whig, who was shot in his own house by Fanning".

He had many land grants found in both Anson and Rowan Counties, but to date no settlement of his estate, or disposal of these lands by wife or children has been found.

From his father, Morgan Sr. he received 313 acres, Jan. 5, 1753. This is recorded in Anson County, Deed Book B-1, p 334. In Rowan County, Book 4, p 541; May 20, 1760, William Linville conveys to John Bryan of Rowan County, 459 acres of land on north side of Yadkin River, near two miles above Arrarat Creek. Same, Book 5, p 194, Aug. 10, 1762; Earl Granville to John Bryan  560 acres, vacant land, both sides of Miller's Creek in fork of south fork of Deep Creek, next Morgan and Martha Bryan. (This grant also found in the Land Grant Office, Raleigh, Vol. 6, p 110) Warrant No. 59;

That he had land on Dutchman's Creek is shown by the following deed, Rowan County Deeds, Book 16, p 354; Dec. 7, 1797; John Bryan Jr., son of John Bryan of Dutchman's Creek. The State grants (#2513) at fifty shillings the 100 acres, to John Bryan, son of John Bryan; 115 acres on the original line, Dutchman's Creek, it being a surplus of his father's old tract. Dated June 22, 1795.

Rowan County, Book 7, p 2384; Fed. 13, 1771; John Bryan, Planter, lets Esq. Morgan Bryan (Morgan Jr.) have 101 acres where the said John Bryan now lives, which was formerly granted him for forty pounds. One of the witnesses to this deed is Andrew Hunt. A follow up to this deed is found in Book 14, p 512, Oct. 13, 1795, when Morgan Bryan Jr. (now 3rd) and wife Margaret of Fayette County, Ky., let Robert Horn* of Rowan County, have 206 acres on Dutchman's Creek, Signed by Morgan and Margaret and witnessed by James Reid, William Chinn and Samuel McMahon.

The above Morgan was the son of James and grandson of Morgan Jr. Margaret was Margaret Ransdall. William Chinn was the brother-in-law of Morgan, having married Sarah Bryan, daughter of James.

* Robin (Robert) Horn married, soon after the end of the Revolution, Sarah (Howell) Bryan, widow of the Tory Captain Thomas Bryan, who was killed at the battle of the Shallow Ford in 1776. She inherited the property of Thomas on Dutchman's Creek, Whether a son of Captain John or not, has not been ascertained.

Captain Jonathan Hunt's list of Taxable Persons, in 1768, shows, "John Bryan and son John", John Bryan Jr. also appears in the deed for land on Dutchman's Creek, due on a resurvey of his father's land.

Bryan Book

That John may have had a daughter Elinor, who according to the Church Records of the Rev. John D. Shane, d. in 1772. (His records deposited with the Presbyterian Historical Society, Philadelphia, Pa.) The only one of the brothers to call a daughter, 'Elinor', was Samuel, and she was living in 1798 when Samuel made his will. A son Joseph, married his cousin, Susanna Bryan, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (McMahon) Bryan.

The late Col, William Lewis Bryan, of Boone, Watauga County, N. Car. descends from a Lewis Bryan, who he says was a son of Capt. John Bryan, but from the date of his marriage, (1796), it would seem that he was a grand son of John and Frances (Battle) Bryan.

As the children and grand children of the brothers of Captain John are known, it would appear that the following early marriages, recorded in Rowan County, might be the children (or grand children) of Captain John Bryan.

Margaret Bryan, m. William Forbes Feb. 13, 1779.
Jane Bryan, m. Isaac Renshaw Oct. 4, 1779.
Mary Bryan, m. David Hampton Aug. 18, 1786.
Elizabeth Bryan, m. John McMahon Mar. 29, 1787.
Nancy Bryan, m. Isaac May June 9, 1789.

John Bryan Jr. left a will dated Nov. 18, 1797, proved Nov. 5, 1800; names wife Sarah; son Samuel; my beloved grand son John Bryan, son to John Bryan decd; male heirs of son James decd; daughter Jane Ortan, Jennett Ortan, Elizabeth David, Sarah Allen, Merey Allen, Lucy and Margaret Allen, Ex. son-in-law Joseph Ortan and William Law, Of these children:

Jane Bryan, m. John Ortan, May 26, 1770.
Jennett Bryan, m. Joseph Ortan, Sept. 3, 1780.
Merey Bryan, m. Thomas Allen, May 26, 1789.

John Bryan 3rd, m. Rebecca Ortan, Aug. 26, 17743 he died 1780-81, as Court Minutes, Aug. 7, 1781 show Letters of Administration granted to Rebecca Bryan and John Bryan Jr. (father) with David Caldwell and John Ortan as securities. (This may be the John Bryan killed in Kentucky, 1780, who has never been placed or identified).

Record of the late W. L. Bryan [W. Lewis Bryan] of Boone, N. Car., who died in 1925, aged eighty-seven years.

My branch of the family comes from Captain John Bryan, a son of Morgan, who was a Captain in the army that fought for independence. He obtained a furlough and came home and by some means Col. Fanning a British officer, learned of this and took a squad of men and followed him and either the first or second morning after he reached home, called him at daylight to the door and demanded that he take the oath to support the King's cause and upon his refusing to do so, shot him on his own door step. (This was Mar. 12, 1782). He had a brother, Samuel, who raised a company of 800 men and tendered them, with himself, to the Governor of North Carolina to fight for the King. So Capt. John and Col. Samuel, the two brothers, had sharp contentions with each other at a point called Hanging Rock in South Carolina.

My great, great grandfather, Capt. John Bryan, son of Morgan Bryan, married Miss. Fannie Battle and I am not informed as to the children born unto them, except my grandfather Lewis (and I was named for him) who married Miss Elizabeth White (Rowan County Marriages, Dec. 7, 1796). They lived in Jefferson, Ashe County, N. Car. and was, I'm told, the first merchant of that town in 1300. He removed from there to Iredell County, now Alexander and was killed by the falling of a tree.  This was at the bend of the Catawba River not far from Taylorsville. He left a wife and six children:

History of North Carolina, Rev. E. W. Caruthers. (1854) Revolutionary Incidents, p 265. Sketches of Character - Col. David Fanning.

"He went the same night to the house of Captain John Bryant who lived about half a mile from New Market, in the place now owned and occupied by Joseph Newland, but missed his way and went to the house of Stephen Harlin, a Quaker, if I mistake not, or at least an inoffensive kind of man. Fanning did not molest him but compelled two of his daughters, Betsy and also to go along and show him the way to Bryant's house. On riding up they first inquired for the man of the house and were told that he was tending Walker's mill on Sandy Creek, when one of the men exclaimed, "Here is Walker now", They then began inquiring who lived in this direction and who lived in that direction until Bryant was named, when they said that was the place they wished to go and made these two daughters of Walker's miller get up behind and go along as pilots. When they came up they made a rush against the door to burst it open but it was fast barred. The noise waked Bryant however and he asked, "who is there?" They answered Col. Fanning and asked him to open the door. He told them to wait until he got his breeches on, but they dammed him and his breeches too. Bryant called a young man who was in the house to get up but he thought it was a jest when they told him Fanning was there. They called upon him to surrender and when he asked them what they would do with him if he did surrender, they answered that they would parole him, but he replied, "Damn you and your parole, too, I have had one and will never take another", Fanning then spoke and said, "My life for this, if Walker does not kill him".

The Misses Harlins, whom they had brought along as pilots, entreated him to surrender, assuring him that Fanning was there, but not believing it he cursed Fanning and all of them. He opened the door a little way to admit the girls and one of them started to go in but Walker caught her by the dress and pulled her back, swearing she was going in to protect Bryant. Bryant seems to have been a brave but reckless kind of man. After holding out as long as he could, he opened the door and going out on the step said, "Gentlemen I surrender", But was instantly shot down and fell back against his wife, who was standing just behind him. As she raised him up, another of the company stepped forward and shot him in the eye. Fanning then threatened death to any one who should give the alarm before daylight; out according to his custom, as he had killed the man he was after, he destroyed no property and did no further damage.

As he probably felt a little wearied after so many labors, he lay down in the cradle and after rocking himself very comfortably for some time, while the rest were sauntering about, they all gathered up and went off in quest of other victims.

As soon as they were gone, Richard Isaacs, who lived at Bryant's went over to Nathan Farlow's and told them what had been done. He and his wife Ruth went over to Bryant's before daylight, but Nathan stopped at some distance until he ascertained that he could go with safety. His wife on entering the house found the body of Bryant on the door sill with the head inside and legs and feet outside.

What had become of Mrs. Bryant and the children meantime - whether they had been driven away or frightened away by the ruffians or finding they could do nothing with it, after Isaacs left, they were letting it lie until some of the neighbors would come in and were giving vent to their grief, I have not learned; but by daylight Nathan Farlow and his wife had the corps laid out. At sunrise, Isaac Farlow, my informant, went over himself and saw the body and the two bullet holes. The first ball had entered his breast, the other his head but neither of them had passed through him.

Bryant was a daring, fearless kind of man. An old Friend in the neighborhood told me that he could have made his escape from the back door, if he had done it as soon as the alarm was given, but that he scorned to run from his enemies and did not surrender until they were about to set fire to the house.  Seeing that they were determined on his death, rather than let his wife and children be burned up in the house with him, he opened the door, went out on the step and offered to surrender but was instantly shot down".

Morgan Bryan Jr.

Morgan Bryan, son of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan, was born May 20, 1729 in Pennsylvania and d. 1804 in Fayette County, Ky. He married, nary, daughter of George Forbeust.

In Virginia, Morgan Bryan Jr. lived on Black Water Creek that runs into the south branch of the Potomac, until he went with his father and brothers to North Carolina. The trail they blazed into North Carolina, known as the Morgan Bryan Road, is described by his son George in the Draper Mss. 22c16.

In North Carolina, Morgan Jr. settled seven miles from the Shallow Ford, in the forks of the Yadkin, on the road to the Catawba Nations.

He was Captain of a company of Rangers and in the Militia Returns for 1754-5, he is mentioned as one of Capt. Jonathan Hunt's Company of Rowan County Foot. (North Car. State & Colonial Records, Vol. 22, p 311). In the report of the Committee of Public Claims, held at New Bern, Way 1, 1760, Capt. Morgan Bryan and his company are allowed (paid) for ranging.

At a meeting of the Committee of Public Safety for Rowan County on Sept. 23, 1774, it was resolved that the following persons constitute the said Committee; then follow twenty-six names, organ Bryan among them. (See N. Car. State & Colonial Records, Vol. 22, p 827). organ and his brother Samuel were appointed Vestrymen for Rowan County. (Same, Vol. 8, p 155).

He did not go to Kentucky until 1779, then when the Bryans lost their land through claims of Col. William Preston and others, he returned to North Carolina in 1780. Filson Club Publications, No. 12, p 52, "Morgan Bryan, one of the four brothers makes deposition before James Trotter, taken Mar. 10, 1795, refers to the movements of the Bryans and others in May 1780 and says, All of whom and myself removed from the Kentucky County in the August following and none of us returned as far as I know, before the year 1784",

Daniel Bryan, son of William and George Bryan, son of Morgan Jr., depose that they left in 1780 but state that they returned at a later date than 1784. Morgan Bryan Jr. and Mary Forbeust had issue:

1. Morgan Bryan III, b. about 1750, married 1781, Millie Simpson; he died in Shelby County in 1819. In Draper Mss. 16cc308, a son of George Bryan says, "Morgan Bryan, my father's oldest brother was along".

Bryan Book

James Bryan, son of Morgan Jr. and Mary Forbeust Bryan, was born about 1751-2 in North Carolina and d. there soon after his return in 1780. He was always called James Jr. in Kentucky records to distinguish him from his Uncle James, Very little is known of him; the name of his wife is not known, but thought to have been a Bradford. From deeds in Fayette County, Ky., we find that he returned to North Carolina in 1780 with all the Bryans (See deposition of Morgan Bryan) and d. soon after his return. These deeds mention Sarah (Bryan) Chinn, Morgan Bryan and James Bryan as sole heirs.

That James d. prior to 1785 is shown in the Rowan County Court Minutes, Aug. 2, 1785, when Morgan Bryan is appointed guardian of Sarah, Morgan and James, orphans of James Bryan deceased.

Fayette County Deed Book, A, p 74 (Dist. Ct.) In July 1780 James Bryan Jr, assigned his settlement and preemption warrants to John Bradford and later returned to North Carolina with other members of the Bryan family and d. there - that at that time (July 1780) he (Bradford) gave his bond to deed him or his heirs the 1/2 part of the amount received by him under the warrants.  That Sarah (Bryan) Chinn and William Chinn her husband, Morgan Bryan and James Bryan are the only heirs of James Bryan deceased, The deed conveyed 306 acres, the consideration being the return of the bond which he gave James Bryan.

Deeds, Dist. Ct. A, p 103-105; Nov. 29, 1796; Morgan Bryan & Margaret his wife convey 60 acres of Morgan's share to John Gardner Jr. Also, same date they convey to William Chinn 42 acres, being the residue of his (Morgan's share, Book C, p 633, Feb. 20, 1802, James Bryan conveys to John Lyle 102 acres, his 1/3 of the 306 acres, his share.

Of the children of James:

Sarah Bryan, b. about 1772, d. Aug. 8, 1829; married, 1792, William Chinn, 1768-1812. When the Bryans returned to North Carolina in 1780, Sarah was left with relatives in Kentucky and was one of the little band of women and children who went to the spring for water during the siege of 1782. They remained on the original location on Cave Run until the death of William Chinn. On the 12th of October, 1825, Sarah Chinn, Franklin Chinn & wife Elizabeth, deed to Clement Nulten  conveying on waters of Cave Run  being part of Bryan's settlement & preemption of 1400 acres. William and Sarah (Bryan) Chinn had issue:

William Bryan

William Bryan, son of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan, was born Mar. 7, 1733 in Virginia and d. May 30, 1730 in Kentucky, he married, Nov. 1756, in North Carolina, Mary Boone, daughter of Squire Boone and sister of Daniel Boone. She was born Nov. 10, 1736 and d. July 1819.

Daniel Bryan says of his father, (Draper Mss. 22c9(22)), "He was five feet ten inches high, stout and strong made; black hair and eyes and rather dark complexion",

William Bryan lived in Rowan County, N. Car. until 1779, when he joined his brothers on the trip to Kentucky. Their settlement was Bryan's Station, five miles north east of Lexington, on the southern branch of the north fork of the Elkhorn. (Collins, Hist. of Kentucky, Vol. 1, p 17).

Daniel Bryan's Narrative.

Draper, 22c6(22) "The family of Bryans all lived in their settlement in North Carolina, until they came to Kentucky. In the fall of 1773 when Boone first started to move his family from the head of the Yadkin to Kentucky, my father and some of his brothers and some friends started to explore the country and accompany Boone to Kentucky.  they had over taken Boone and were in Powell's Valley when Boone's son James was Killed.  In 1775 my father and four of his brothers and about twenty-five of his neighbors started from Carolina. They came to Boonesborough the fall after it was settled. Some of the company staid and raised corn at Harrodsburg but the Bryans went back to Carolina to prepare to return to Kentucky".

The Filson Club Pub. No. 12 (R. T. Durrett) gives William, James, Morgan, Joseph, George, David, Samuel and John and said they had 13,000 acres, (Compiler's Note - William, James and Morgan were the brothers. Joseph was Joseph Jr.; George, the son of Morgan; David, the son of James).

William Bryan was wounded May 23, 1780 in a skirmish with the Indians and only lived one week, Mary (Boone) Bryan, a widow for forty years, married at the age of eighty-two, Charles Smith, aged eighty-four. She only lived one year after this marriage. Draper, 22c50, The records show that Charles Smith married Mary Bryan when he was eighty-four years of age. She had been a widow forty years. Her husband, William Bryan settled Bryan's Station and was Killed there by the Indians. His widow returned to her native State, North Carolina, after his death, where she remained ten years, then returned to Kentucky. Her husband, in his life time entered a great body of land around Bryan's Station, all of which his widow sold for a pack horse to carry her movables back to North Carolina. On her return to Kentucky, she had to make the title to this land good by the then due process of law.

The will of William Bryan, dated May 23, 1730, was taken back to North Carolina by his widow and recorded in Rowan County, Will Book B, pp 36-7; mentions wife but not by name; children, Samuel, Daniel, Phoebe, Hannah, Sarah, Elizabeth and Mary. (For complete will see Bryan Wills and Deeds With Genealogical Notes, by L. M. Brien).

The Revolutionary service of William Bryan was in Kentucky, where he commanded the Fort and served in Capt. Holdre's company of Militia. (Ref., Filson Publications;

Thomas Bryan

Thomas Bryan (See Addenda), youngest son of Morgan and Martha (Strode) Bryan, b. about 1736 in Virginia, d. Fed. 15, 1789 in North Carolina, married in 1756, Sarah Hunt, daughter of Col. Jonathan Hunt and his first wife, Isabel Henderson. Sarah was born in New Jersey in 1748, but after the death of her mother, Col. Jonathan removed to North Carolina.

Thomas Bryan served three years in the Revolutionary War as Surgeon and Captain. (See D.A.R. Lineage Book, Vol. 34, p 62) His heirs settled on his land Warrant of 1,000 acres in Kentucky. Before his service in the army he practiced medicine in Mississippi and according to family tradition accumulated a large amount of money in silver. He attempted to return to North Carolina with his money in rawhide sacks on pack horses and was waylaid and robbed.

He inherited his father's manor house and plantation in North Carolina, but sold it to his brother William in 1764. His portrait in possession of his son Jesse, shows him to have been a well built man, rather heavy in stature. This portrait was left by Jesse to his son Dr. John Gano Bryan of St. Louis, with other family portraits and treasures, among them a very curious brass bound chest, containing badges, trophies, medals, silver chaps and other treasures brought from Ireland and handed down for generations. All these were destroyed by the Federal troops who took possession of Dr. Bryan's home in 1861, and every thing not wanted for use in their officer's quarters was destroyed by fire.

After the death of Thomas Bryan, his widow married the Rev, John Gano, "Fighting Chaplain" of the Revolution and removed to Kentucky where she died Apr. 22, 1795, as the result of a fall from her horse, in the 57th year of her age.

Copy Of Certificate Of Church Membership

Ballyrony, Ireland, Apr. 17, 1718.

"The bearer hereof, William Bryan, who hath been a useful member of this Congregation, being now about to transport himself and family to America, these are to certify that he and his wife, Margaret Bryan, have been of good repute amongst us, having always deserved the laudable character of blameless and gospel life, so deserve encouragement, » a kind and cheerful recognition into any Christian Society where the providence of God may cast their lot, as also admission to sealing ordinances in an orderly way, all of which is certified by us".

Signed by the following:

James Moore	William Lance	L. A. McMullan
James Davidson	John Truesdale	Lance Parfirm
William Adair	James Dodds	John Stoddard
George J. White	Francis Moore

In the corner of this Certificate, in the remarkably firm hand of the original William Bryan was written, "My age to this year of our Lord 1775 is 90 years".

In following this William Bryan line one must always keep in mind one must always keep in mind the county divisions made at different times. Spotsylvania was the original western county of Virginia, formed in 1721 by act of the Virginia Legislature, "To extend westward to the river (Shenandoah) beyond the high mountains", It was one Parish, called St. George; in 1730 this was divided into St. George and St. Marks; the latter in the upper part of the county, in 1734 became Orange County. (See Crozier's Spotsylvania County Records).

In 1738, Augusta was taken from Orange; also Culpeper, Madison, Rockbridge, Botetourt were at one time part of Augusta. Rockingham from Augusta in 1778. Bryans lived in all of these counties.

William Bryan's name appears in one of the first deeds of Spotsylvania County, but always spoken of as of Orange County. de later moved down on the Roanoke River in Augusta and was by county divisions in both Roanoke and Botetourt Counties.

In McKenzie's Colonial Families and the Shearer-Aker Mss. we find the following:

"William Smith Bryan, a land holder in Ireland, probably County Clare, at the time of the British invasion under Cromwell, and for taking the side of Ireland, was transported as a rebellious subject in 1650, to the American Colonies with his family, goods and chattels, consisting of a ship load.

He settled in Gloucester County, Virginia. He had eleven sons, Francis, the oldest and Morgan Bryan in Norfolk County in 1693 is thought to be a son".

"Francis Bryan, the oldest son returned to Ireland in 1667 and endeavored to recover his hereditary titles and estates but was so greatly persecuted by the English government that he sought refuge in Denmark. Here he married Sarah Brinker, a cousin of the Dutch Princess of Orange. After a few years he returned to Ireland, where he died in 1694. His son Morgan was born 1671 in Denmark and William was born 1685 in Ireland", (Also see the family record written by Samuel Bryan, son of Capt. William and grandson of Morgan Bryan, filed with his pension application).

William Bryan and wife Margaret lived at Ballyrone, Ireland. They were Presbyterians. One day they sent their little son John into the woods to cut a stick to make a handle for a hook used in weaving; he was arrested for poaching. After much trouble and expense his father got him clear and immediately sailed for America, where as he said, "Timber was free and there were no constables".

This was the year 1718. Morgan Bryan his brother, was then in Chester County, Pa. , where in 1719 he married Martha Strode. A brother, David, is thought to have been with him.

It is presumed that William Bryan settled in Orange County about the same time that Morgan Bryan settled near Winchester, Va., as we find in the History of Orange County that William Bryan and Philip Bush were on the first Grand Jury for that County in 1734. Also in Spotsylvania County Records, (Crozier), Mar. 15, 1733, William Bryan gives to Philip Bush 800 pounds of tobacco and 102 acres in St. Mark's Parish (later Orange County).

William Bryan's daughter Mary, married Philip Bush (son of John and Margaret Bush). Their son William Bush, b. 1746, went to Kentucky with the Bryans and Boones.

About 1745, William Bryan, with his sons, James and David, removed to the Staunton River, in (present) Roanoke County. They with others were the first white settlers in that locality. William settled at the place called Lake Spring, where he died at the age of 104 years; David settled at Big Lick, both near Roanoke City. The wife of David was Elizabeth and both appear in deeds of Orange County. David was witness to a will, Mar. 11, 1733 and Elizabeth witnessed a deed in 1733.

A deed of 1779 in Botetourt County, 400 acres to David Bryan by William Bryan and wife Sarah (She was Sarah Henry, m. 1778), refers to the sons of David, as he, David Sr. died in 1767.

The children of William and Margaret Bryan were:

John Andrew Bryan, b. prior to 1718, as he was about six years of age when his parents came to America; he died in Campbell County, Va. 1799. His wife was Mary Morrison.

James Bryan, d. 1816 in Mason County, Va. (presently W. Va.)

William Jr. Bryan, d. 1806 in Botetourt County, Va.;

m. (1) Margaret Watson, in 1750 in New Jersey;

m. (2) Elizabeth _____.

David Bryan, d. 1767; wife Elizabeth married Col. John Bowman.

Mary Bryan, m. Philip Bush.

Margaret Bryan, m. James Love.

It was in 1748 that Morgan Bryan left Winchester and started for North Carolina. He was three months on the way, as he tarried awhile in Roanoke County, but not liking it there pushed on. Archibald Henderson in his 'Conquest of the Old Southwest', says, "Morgan Bryan pushed on across the Blue Ridge, leaving behind his brother, William in Roanoke County".

Bryan Book

Augusta County Records, (Chalkley) Vol. 2, p 223; Prior to 1771 William Bryan senr. owned 400 acres on Roanoke River near Salem; divided it between his sons, William & James. James sold out all to Andrew Lewis, Mar. 28, 1788,  James moved to Mason County, Va. (now W. Va.)

Ibid, Vol. 1, p 123; Aug. 24, 1765; William Bryan exempt from levy (County tax) which means that he was an old man.

Ibid, Vol. 1, p 135; May 25, 1767; Elizabeth Bryan, executor of David Bryan; in 1771 the widow had married John Bowman.

Ibid, Vol. 3, p 466; Mar. 14, 1768; William Bryan Sr. to James Bryan;  267 acres on Roanoke, alias Goose Creek; comer to William Bryan Jr.

John Bryan

John Andrew Bryan, oldest son of William and Margaret Bryan was born about 1712 in Ireland, as he was six years of age when his parents came to America. He married Mary Morrison, Mar. 10, 1742 and moved to the Burden Colony, near Fairfield, Rockbridge County, but after a few years at the Burden Colony, they proceeded to the Staunton River where he became owner of the land upon which the town of Salem was later located. He left the Staunton River in 1763, traded his land for a pair of cart wheels and moved his family to present Campbell County, then Bedford. Here he bought 329 acres of land from Richard Stith and 639 acres from Benjamin Arnold. On the last named tract he erected a cabin, about two miles south east of Rustburg, but later built a log house farther down on the other branch, known as Molly's Creek. A lot on the place was used as a muster ground for many years after the Revolution.

John Andrew Bryan served in the Revolution as corporal, Capt. Brown's Company, 3rd Reg. Virginia State Troops.

His will recorded Oct. 9, 1799 in Campbell County, names wife Mary; sons, William, Andrew Morrison and John; daughters, Mary, Margaret, Agnes, Katrine and Jean Davison.

The Bible of John and Mary (Morrison) Bryan is in possession of the Dinwiddie family of Charlottesville, Va. Record follows:

Mar. 10, 1742, John Bryan and Mary were married.
Mar. 3, 1743, Margaret Bryan was born.
Apr. 20, 1744, William Bryan was born.
Aug. 6, 1746, Jean Bryan was born.
Apr. 14, 1748, Andrew Morrison Bryan was born.
May 16, 1750, Mary Bryan was born.
Mar. 3, 1752, Margaret Bryan was born.
June 2, 1754, John Bryan was born.
Dec. 19, 1756, John Bryan was born.
May 16, 1761, Jean Bryan was born.
Aug. 9, 1763, Agnes Bryan was born.
Oct. 21, 1765, Catren Bryan was born.

William Bryan received from his father, John Andrew, a tract of 329 acres on Molly's Creek, but in 1779 sold his land and moved to Redford County, where he died without issue.

Andrew Morrison Bryan died in Greene County, Ohio, Apr. 20, 1821, a soldier of the Revolution; married Mary Akers. She was born May 15, 1754 and died Feb. 17, 1823. He received 156 acres of land from his father in 1773, this he sold to his brother John and moved to North Carolina, where his youngest son David was born, Oct. 24, 1793. A few years later he returned to Campbell County, then in 1810 removed to Ohio with his children and their families, where they settled near Jamestown, Greene County.

His will on file (Book C & D, p 499) names wife Mary and son David.

James Bryan

James Bryan, probably the second son of William Bryan Sr., came with his father to Roanoke County and inherited the Lake Spring property. that he was a large land holder is verified by deeds. In 1733 he sold most of his land to his son-in-law, Andrew Lewis, and removed to Mason County, now west Virginia. His wife was Elizabeth and his children named in his will (Not indexed; see Mason County Deed Book D, p 130) dated Oct. 41, 1815 and recorded Apr. 16, 1816, are:

A grand daughter, Sophia Bryan, probably the daughter of the deceased son William, is to be taken care of by the sons Robert and Charles. She married Thomas H. Mason, Mar. 22, 1819.

The widow, Elizabeth left a will recorded Mar. 6, 1933 (Book A-1, p 2); names her sons, Robert & Charles; grand son Robert, son of Robert and great grand daughter, Nancy Mason.

Bryan Book

William Bryan Jr.

William Bryan Jr., called "William Bryan of Roanoke", married (1) in New Jersey, Apr. 2, 1750, Margaret Watson. (See New Jersey Ar., Vol. 22 of Marriages). (2) Elizabeth _____. In his will, dated June 27, 1805, proved Oct. 1806 (Botetourt County Wills, Book 3, p 128), he expresses the wish to be buried by his parents; provides for his widow, Elizabeth; names sons, William, John and James; daughter Catharine Cole and grandson William Cole. Son James is executor. Part of the lands bequeathed were 1,400 acres in Kentucky on Licking Creek, "for which my son James and me paid the purchase".

The widow Elizabeth removed to Washington County, Missouri in 1821 with the son James, where she died in 1835, aged 90 years. A History of Roanoke County (1902), pp 296-8, says in part:

"The immigrant, William Bryan, with his wife and brother David, first settled in eastern Pennsylvania and about 1746 came to the Roanoke Valley which was then embraced within the limits of Orange County, William settled near lake Spring.  William and wife Margaret had a son William, who inherited the home place. The latter's wife was Margaret Watson of New Jersey. They had among others, William, John and James. William 3rd, after his Uncle David removed to North Carolina, came into possession of David's farm".

The Bryan and Lewis families owned the point of land made by the Ohio and Kanawha Rivers, Point Pleasant, as shown by the will of James Bryan and the following deed.

Mason County Deeds, Book A, p 1023; July 28, 1792;

Know all men by these presents that I, William Bryan Jr. of Botetourt County and State of Virginia, hath sold unto Joseph McBride of Kanawha County and State aforesaid wit a certain lot at Point Pleasant, in town of Lewisburg  it being the fifth lot from the Point and known as Bryan lot. etc.

James Bryan also had 400 acres at the Point. (For his complete will see Bryan Wills and Deeds with Genealogical Notes Brien).

Augusta County Records, Chalkley, Vol. 2, p 223;

"William Bryan Jr. died July 1806, testate, devising interest to his son (Orator). James Sr. had a son Andrew. Will of William Bryan of Roanoke is in Botetourt County; wife Elizabeth; sons, William, James, John; daughter Catharine Cole, wife of John Cole; grand son William Cole".

Ibid, p 223;

"Prior to 1771 William Bryan Sr. owned 400 acres on Roanoke River, near Salem; divided it between his sons William and James. James entered 190 acres adjoining and patent issued in name of James, Feb. 6, 1771. James sold out all to Andrew Lewis, Mar. 28, 1738, who sold it to his brother William, James moved to Mason County, Virginia".

David Bryan

David Bryan, son of William Bryan Sr. and wife Margaret, lived near his father. In 1753 he bought 400 acres of Charles Campbell on Goose Creek, His will is dated Dec. 18, 1766, proved Mar. 18, 1767. (Augusta County Wills, Book 3, p 503). Mentions wife, but not by name; sons, William and David; a daughter Mary. His wife, Elizabeth was executor, May 25, 17657 and the-final settlement shows the widow had married John Bowman by 1771. (See Augusta County Records, Vol. 1, p 135).

The Bowmans removed to Kentucky about 1778-9 and it is in the Bowman Papers, Draper Mss. that we find records of David Bryan's children. He names only three in his will, but these pavers state that there were eight Bryan children.

Draper Mss. 17j123;

"John Bowman Jr. b. 1771, mentions his favorite half brother, David Bryan and in 11cc134, (Same) it is stated that the youngest stepson of Col. John Bowman is William Bryan; also that William Bowman married Sarah Henry in Botetourt County, Va. in 1778. She was born in 1756 and died 1846, aged ninety years. They had a son, David, b. 1779. William was married when they came to Kentucky, David single. They came together as far as the wilderness. David starved for want of bread. William was killed at the Pickaway towns in Clarke's Campaign of 1780".

WILLIAM BRYAN - GUY BRYAN - Culpeper County, Virginia

William Bryan

William Bryan, who died in Culpeper County, Virginia, in 1806, leaving no record of his ancestry, has been placed in various lines. Both the Morgan Bryan line and that of William Bryan of Isle of Wight, who married Alice Macland, claim him.

Dr. Slaughter, in his History of Culpeper County, thinks ne might be the son of a Joseph Bryan, who settled there in 1752, but according to the County Clerk (1923) the land deeds show this early settler (1760-65) to have been JOSIAH, not Joseph. This name with the names Guy and Francis, would seem to place this line in that of the English Quaker line of Pennsylvania. Dr. Slaughter's narrative continues:

"William Bryan lived near Sperryville, now Rappahannock County. He was a large land owner. The year following his death his lands were divided among his children and the son John was allotted that portion lying near Sperryville. The old Bryan home still stands on this tract in a good state of preservation".

From Pioneer Settlers of Grayson County, Va. (Benjamin Floyd Nuckolls) p 163.

"In the history of the Bryan family, written by the wife of William Jennings Bryan, she says, 'The great grand father of William Jennings Bryan had a brother Francis and a sister Elizabeth that moved west from eastern Virginia and the family lost all trace of them. In the early settlement of south west Virginia, Francis Bryan and his sister, Elizabeth came to Fort Chiswell and the lead mines. From there they crossed the Iron Mountains and settled on Elk Creek, Elizabeth married John Southerland and brought up a large family. Francis married Phoebe Woodruff and moved from Elk Creek to Ashe County, North Carolina".

Josiah Bryan and wife Sarah were received in church membership in the Poney Baptist Church in 1786 and Guy Bryan and Milly were received by letter (from where) Feb. 9, 1788, according to Dr. Slaughter. Colgate University, the repository for records of Baptist Churches, has no record of this church.

There is no trace of Josiah after he deeds land to Guy Bryan in 1804, and it is probable that Josiah and Sarah were the parents of the following:

William Bryan, d. 1806; m. Letty Asher.
Guy Bryan, d. 1809, intestate; m. Mildred Asher.
Francis Bryan, b. June 25, 1770, d. 1848; m. Phoebe Woodruff.
Elizabeth Bryan, m. John Southerland of Grayson County, Va.
Ann Bryan)
Susanna Bryan) sisters named in will of William Bryan, 1806.
Rebecca Bryan)

The will of William Bryan (Book 2, v 162), proved July 21, 1306, only names one son, dames, but the wife Letty Bryan, is to have one hundred dollars every year, above her portion to maintain the children until they come of age; also gives his three sisters a place to live, "as long as they shall live together or single".

Morgan Bryan lived in Alleghany County, near his father.

Gideon Bryan lived in Surry County.

John Bryan lived in Yadkin County; moved to Illinois.

William Bryan lived in Surry County on Yadkin River.

As stated before, the History of Grayson County, Virginia, by B. F. Nuckels, (p 163), quoting from family records compiled by the wife of William Jennings Bryan, says that Francis Bryan and his sister Elizabeth, came from Culpeper County to Grayson County. For descent from the Morgan Bryan line, we have only the word of the late William L, Bryan, who died in 1925, aged 87 years, that, "Old Frank Bryan and my grand father, Lewis Bryan were cousins", This statement was made in a letter to Mrs, Pauline (Bryan) Wild, a descendant of Thomas Bryan, youngest son of Morgan Bryan Sr.

Bryan Book

William L. Bryan of Boone, N. Car., was the son of Battle Bryan and .. Rebecca Miller; Battle the son of Lewis Bryan and wife Elizabeth White; Lewis the son (or grandson) of John Bryan (son of Morgan, killed by Tories at his door, Mar. 12, 1782).

Another grandson of Francis also wrote Mrs. Wild, as follows:

Will give you all the history of the Bryan family that I know, which is very little. I have not seen any of the older members since I was eighteen years old, consequently I know nothing relating to their antecedents except just what I remember having heard talked over when I was a boy.

My grand father's name was Frank Bryan, who as a young man settled in Alleghany County, N. Car., a few miles from the little village of Sparta, where he lived until his death which occurred about 1848.  know absolutely nothing. in regard to my great grand parents. My grand father's sons were, morgan, Gideon, Thomas, John, William, Frank, Abraham, all of whom are now dead with the exception of my father, John. They all settled within twenty Miles of the homestead in the Blue Ridge Mountains and do not think any of them ever moved from the farm upon which he settled after marriage. .

After marriage my father settled in Surry County (then Yadkin) on the north Yadkin River, one mile from the town of Elkin, where he lived some years until the death of his wife, then went to Huntington County, Ind., where he married my mother, Lydia Jeffry. After my mother's death, moved to Cole County, Ill., where he died in 1869 at the age of 62 years. After his death I went to North Carolina, where I lived until I was eighteen years old, then came west. The year I left North Carolina, I met at Boone, Watauga County, a Mr. W. L. Bryan, who told me that Daniel Boone's wife (who was a Bryan) was his Aunt. He also said that his grandfather and old Frank Bryan, my grand father were cousins.  As to the descendants of my uncles, I know only a few of them. Their name is 'legion' with no indication of race suicide up to the present time. ***

Sincerely T. P. Bryan.

NEEDHAM BRYAN - North Carolina

Needham Bryan

The ancestry of Needham Bryan, allowed to slumber close to three hundred years under a cloud of tradition, has at last come to light for descendants,

Deeds show that John Bryan Sr. was in Isle of Wight County prior to 1652, as his land grants begin at that date and continue until 1692 in Lower Norfolk, Isle of Wight and Nansemond Counties, and it is through these grants that his sons, William and John can be traced. This John Bryan Sr. d. 1711 in Norfolk County, intestate, but having in his life time entered close to two thousand acres of land on both Sides of the line dividing Isle of Wight and. Nansemond counties.

The first deed of 1652 is found in Isle of Wight deeds, Great Book, Part One, also in Nugent's "Cavaliers and Pioneers of Virginia", Land Grants, p 518. "To John Bryan 168 acres on a branch of the Nansemond River, called Indian Creek (joining a patent to Mr, James Garrett)  being the renewal of a patent dated Oct 15th, 16523; granted 17 Aug. 1664.

Land Office, Richmond, Va. Book 5, p 123; 18 Mar. 1662; to John Bryan 200 acres in Upper Norfolk on Nansemond River, on line of William Denson, then to Indian Creek; this land formerly a grant to said Bryan 20 Mar. 1659, being at the south side of the west branch of Nansemond (River) lying south of Indian Creek on William Denson's line, being the renewal of a patent dated 20 Mar. 1659.

Ibid, Book 8, p 4163; To John Bryant 350 acres in Nansemond joining Robert Johnson's line. (land).

Ibid, p 540; 6 Oct. 1674; To John Bryan 81 acres in Nansemond, joining his own land, William Denson's line.

Ibid, Book 7, p 133; 20 Apr. 1682; To John Bryan of Nansemond County, 470 acres of land on the head of a branch of the southern branch of the Nansemond, beginning near Robert Johnson's line to the line of Thomas Mason, which land was granted Thomas Mason 8 Oct. 1672; etc.

There are many more but this last one bearing date 20 Apr. 1682, we Will follow to his son William and to William's son Needham Bryan. Land Grant Office, Richmond, Va., Book 7, p 133; To John Bryan 470 acres of Land situate on the head of the branches of the Nansemond, beginning at a pine near Robert Johnson's line  to line of Thomas Mason.  the said land being paid to said Bryan as follows; 150 acres being part of a patent granted said Bryan 8 Oct. 1672; the remaining being waste land joining to the former by and for the transportation of seven persons into the Colony, dated 20 Apr. 16382.

Then, Isle of Wight Book, Vol. 1, p 6853; John Bryan Sr, of the Lower Parish of Isle of Wight to my son William Bryan of the same County and Parish, for natural love and affection  200 acres of land, being part of a patent to said John Bryan Sr., bearing date 20 Apr. 1682.

Then Isle of Wight, Book 2, p 265; 25 Mar. 1713; Needham Bryan of the Upper Parish of Nansemond and James Nolliby of Isle of Wight;  The said Needham Bryan for love and affection I bear my loving brother John Bryan  270 acres of land near the north east line dividing Nansemond and Isle of Wight, beginning at a pine on the road at Edward Bryan's line  being part of a patent granted to John Bryan deceased, bearing date 20 Apr. 1682. Signed Needham Bryan, Ann Bryan.

The deed from William to his son Needham was probably recorded in Nansemond County and as the records of that County were totally destroyed, 1864-5, it is not possible to complete the abstract, but these three deeds, covering the same grant of date, 20 Apr. 1682, should be conclusive.

There is in Isle of Wight County the will of a John Macland, recorded Nov. 9, 1705 (Wills & Deeds, Book 2, p 473) who names a daughter Alice Bryant and grand children, Needham, William, John, Mary and Alice Bryant. This is without doubt the Alice who married William Bryan and were the parents of Needham Bryan. All early records make the mistake of calling her Alice Needham. The wife of John Sr. may have been a Needham.

William Bryan, born 1655, probably in Isle of Wight County, came to North Carolina with his sons and settled in Pasquotank County, where he died in 1742. He filled many offices of trust, as Justice of the Peace, High Sheriff and Member of the House of Assembly in 1739.

Needham Bryan, born Feb, 11, 1690 in Virginia, moved to North Carolina in 1722 and settled on Albemarle sound, Bertie County, where he died Jan, 2, 1770. His will deposited with the State Department of Archives and History, Raleigh, is found in Bertie County Wills, 1749-1544, Vol. II, p 8, badly torn and discolored. He names his wife Sarah; my four grand sons, Ezekiel Williams, Louis Gardner, Joseph Jernighan and my daughter Rachel's son William, her first born; my three children, sons William and Needham and my daughter Rachel. Executors, sons, Needham and William.

Needham Bryan married (1) Nov. 16, 1711, Annie Rambeau, born 1695 in Virginia, d. Mar. 1730. (2) Aug. 14, 1732, Susannah Harrell, who died June 14, 1752. (3) June 20, 1753, Sarah Woodward, who survived him, dying June 19, 1776.

Issue by Annie Rambeau:

- Rachel Bryan, b. June 10, 1723, d. Nov. 1780;

Bryan Book

EDWARD BRYAN of North Carolina

O'Bryan - Bryan

The original transcript of the O'Bryan - Bryan family of Craven County, North Carolina, commonly called the "New Germany Bryans", stated that John O'Bryan of Ireland and wife Mary, were the immediate ancestors. A careful study of the Craven County deeds shows these brothers, Edward, the oldest, John, William, Council and Hardy" to be sons of Edward and Christian (Council) Bryan. A son Lewis is not mentioned in the record, but "Lewis Bryan, son of Edward" found in deeds, is the key or proof of this line. This Edward Sr. may have been the son of John Bryan Sr. of Isle of Wight, deceased by 1711, who entered land in Virginia in 1652, but proof is lacking. This is an Irish line; his son William, 1655-1742, married Alice Macland and they were the parents of Needham Bryan, an Irish line.

That there were two distinct lines is well known. The Bryan Arms on the window of Christ Church, New Bern, placed there by the William Bryan who died 1747, are those of the English Bryans. This William names a brother Joseph as executor. This Joseph married Sarah Maule and their grand daughter, Emily (Bryan) Smith, wrote in her family records, "My father, Elijah Bryan married Elizabeth Bryan of the O'Bryan line."

Bryan Book

Edward Bryan

Edward Bryan of Isle of Wight County, Virginia, settled in Bertie County, North Carolina, prior to 1706 and later removed to Craven County with his sons, where he died in 1739. One record places his birth as the year 1663 and his marriage to Christian Council as 1692, but there is no proof for this statement, and Isle of Wight Marriages (Chapman, Book 4, p 104), gives the date as 1699. Christian was the daughter of Hodges and Lucy (Hardy) Council.

Very little is known of Edward Bryan except what can be gleaned from Court records. He is found in many deeds in Chowan and Bertie Counties, but there is no record of his having entered, owned or sold land in Craven County.

Edenton Court records (N. Car. State & Colonial Records, Vol. 2, p 100) has the following, "Edward Bryan appointed Overseer of the Road, may 1706, from Middle Swamp to Richard Booth's line", In 1714, he proves the will of Richard Booth. The records show, "Suit against Edward Bryan in 1713".

On July 2, 1713, Thomas Maurer and wife Bridget deed to Edward Bryan a tract of land on the River side of Hertford and on Aug. 9, 1714, Henry Bradley and wife Catharine deed to Edward Bryan land on the west side of Chowan River, adjoining land where he now lives. The witnesses to this deed were John Bryan and J. Bryan.

Bertie County Deeds, Book it, p 93; 10 Dec. 1736; Edward Bryan of Craven County sells to Thomas Byrd Sr. of Bertie Precinct, Albemarle, land in Bertie County. .

Edward Bryan did not live long after removing to Craven County, as the records there show that in March, 1739, Christian Bryan, widow of Edward Bryan deceased, came into Court and made oath to an inventory of the estate of her deceased husband and prays it be recorded. Granted.

The first deed in Craven County to any one of this family, is Sept. 10, 1737, when the Commissioners deed to John Bryan, lot 115, the front half, one half acre. (Book 1, p 64). It is presumed that Edward owned the other half of lot 115, as after his death the Commissioners deed lot 115 from King St. down to the River to John Bryan, 23 June 1739. book 1, p 310).

The children of Edward and Christian (Council) Bryan, as known were:

- Edward Bryan
- John Bryan
- William Bryan
- Lewis Bryan
- Council Bryan
- Hardy Bryan

Edward Bryan Jr. the oldest of the "Five Brothers", was a prosperous ; : merchant, if one can judge by his will. He married Ann (Slade) Hand, widow of Peter Hand, about 1732 and their children are named in his will dated Jan. 28, 1745 and proved May 9, 1746. (See State Dept. Ar. & Hist., Raleigh, North Carolina Wills, 1663-1789, Vol. 5, p 2). He gives to wife Ann one plantation; to John Bryan, my eldest son, 220 acres of land in New Germany; to Edward Bryan, 250 acres of land, part of the New Germany tract; to William Bryan 300 acres of land and to each a lot in New Bern; daughter Penelope, money, rather than land. Of these children:

Bryan Book

John Bryan married Rebecca Martin.

William Bryan, probably d. prior to 1762, as property left him by his father, reverted to his brother John,

Edward Bryan, probably d. prior to his mother, as she does not name him in her will, His will (no dates) names mother Ann; brother John; cousins (nephews) John Hill Bryan and Edward Bryan, sons of brother John.

Penelope Bryan, married (1) Levin Lane; (2) Daniel Yates.

Ann Bryan, widow of Edward left a will dated Oct. 24, 1760, proved Dec. Court 1760. (North Carolina Wills, 1755-60, Vol. 2, p 41, Raleigh) She names her son John Bryan and his son Edward; daughter Penelope iane; gives to daughter Mary Castelo (by first marriage) my best feather bed and furniture and one pound, six shillings, eight pence to by her a ring.

The following interesting old deed relates to this line. Craven County, N. C. 3, N. C. 152; 5 July 1807; Den on demise of Edward Bryan v Jeremiah Parsons Jr. Upon the trial of this action of ejectment, the plaintiff offered as evidence to the jury a registered copy of a deed from Martin Franck and Edward Franck to the plaintiff's grand father, also called Edward Bryan. From the land by said deed conveyed as it was alleged described to John Bryan, the plaintiff's father, who on the-25th of Sept. 1786, conveyed the same to Edward Bryan, (the plaintiff) (and to) John Hill Bryan, William Bryan, Frederick Bryan & Joseph Bryan, reserving to himself a life estate.

The defendant alleged that in the deed from Martin & Edward Franck, to plaintiff's grand father an alteration had been made of one of the courses of the land previously to the registry of the deed, so that on the copy offered to the jury it appeared north 5 E. instead of north 45 E.; objected to the copy as evidence & insisted that the original deed should be produced,  The plaintiff offered to swear that he had not the original & knew not where it was; the defendant begged to be permitted to show to the Court by testimony that the original deed had been destroyed intentionally, with the approbation of the plaintiff to prevent the alteration of its course being seen; and he proved that he had caused a notice to be served upon the plaintiff that the production of the original deed at the trial would be insisted on. He was permitted to introduce the evidence to show the alteration & the evidence being satisfactory, the plaintiff was non suited *** .

John Bryan

John Bryan, probably the second son of Edward and Christian (Council) Bryan, was deceased by May 1760, as shown by deeds. (Craven County Deeds, Book 2, p 262). He is said to have had two wives, the first, Elizabeth Bradley, daughter of Henry and Catharine Bradley; second, Ann Cady Norwood.

He appears in many deeds in Chowan, Bertie and Albemarle Counties, then down to Craven County by 17367. The State & Colonial Records of North Carolina, Vol. 2, p 426, Edenton Court, "John Bryan, son of Edward, patented 640 acres, Mar. 1717, in Chowan Precinct; allowed to lapse", Same, p 421, Council, Edenton, 1721, "John Bryan asks for renewal of patent, in possession of John Nairne four years", Same, Oct. 20, 1721, John Nairne to John Bryan 640 acres on Cypress Swamp.

In Bertie County Deeds, Book A, p 158; John Bryan, son of Edward to Lewis Bryan, Aug. 13, 1723; "Land lying in Bertie Precinct  640 acres on Chinkapin". (Two sons of Lewis, Simon and Lewis Jr., deed this land to their brother Edward). Again, same reference, "John Bryan of Albemarle, son of Edward ", conveys to William Curlee etc.

He first appears in Craven County deeds in 1737, when on the 20th of Sept, the Commissioners deed to John Bryan lot 115 in Town of New Bern.

The Land Grant Office, Raleigh, N. Car., Book 8, p 89, Craven County; "To John Bryan, 626 acres of land, north side of Neuse River, upper side of Duck Creek"; grant dated 28 Feb. 1739. Craven County. Deeds, Book 2, p 334, show that in 1744, he sold this land to Major Yheopolis Pugh.

In Isle of Wight County, Virginia, is recorded an interesting deed. (Book 2, p 618), Indenture between John Briant of North Carolina, Barry (Bertie) Precinct, yeoman, of the one part & James Bryant of the Lower-Parish of Isle of Wight County, yeoman, of the other part; in consideration of 60 barrel of good merchantable tar to him in hand paid by the aforesaid James Briant, said John Briant hath granted unto said James Briant, 200 acres of land lying in Isle of Wight County, being part of a tract of land containing 941 acres formerly granted to Hodges Council the elder by patent bearing date 1677 and by him the said Hodges Council the elder conveyed by will to his daughter, Christian Bryant, the wife of Edward Bryant, to her and the heirs of her body;  on south side of the said Hodges Council's former dwelling plantation, given by will bearing date 9 Aug. 1699 and recorded in open Court and now sold to James Briant and the said John Bryant Jr. (?) doth covenant and agree this 20 Dec. 1723.

John Bryan and wife Elizabeth Bradley are said to have had a son, Henry Bryan, who was deeded lot 116 in Town of New Bern, 20 Sept. 1737. He evidently had a son, John, who in 1770, deeds this lot to John Bryan Jr., "Infant son of John Council Bryan and Ann his wife, for natural love and affection to his cousin and for the better advancement of his fortune",

In 1742, Henry Bradley came into court and gave John Bryan and John Becton as security for 1/3 part of the personal property of Henry Bradley, deceased, due him, (Henry Bryan), son of John Bryan by Elizabeth his wife, and joint heir of Henry Bradley decd.

Lewis Bryan

As stated before, the only record of Lewis Bryan, son of Edward, is in the following deeds. They show that he was deceased by November 1752 and that his wife was Ann, but no record of children has been found. The compiler has a tentative list, but proof is lacking to show that the following were his sons.

John Council Bryan, a vestry man in 1752, to whom the King of England entrusted the gift of a silver communion service for the church.

Lewis Bryan, Administrator for his brother Isaac in 1790.

Isaac Bryan, whose estate was settled by his brother, Lewis Bryan and James Bryan. Campbell Bryan, heir at law of Silas Bryan, according to the New Bern Gazette, issue of Dec. 12, 1790; he had issue:

Hardy Bryan

Col. Hardy Bryan, son of Edward and Christian (Council) Bryan, married as his second wife, Sarah Bonner Worsley, daughter of Thomas and Abigail Bonner and widow of John Worsley. The will of Col. Hardy, dated Feb. 28, 1760, proved May 6, 1760 names wife Sarah Bryan. Sarah made a deed of gift to her children (Craven County Deeds, Book 12-13, p 594) Sarah Bryan, widow, for love and affection for my well beloved children, Hardy Bryan, Nathan, Isaac, Lewis and Mary Bryan, all my personal estate, dated Aug. 16, 1765. This deed of gift was proved in open court, Oct. 1766, by Fred. Becton, one of the witnesses. The other two were William Isler and Jesse Bryan.

Col. Hardy, after giving to his sons, Thomas and William, gives to the others, beginning with Hardy, to speak of their affectionate mother, hence the conclusion that there were two wives.

Of the children of Col. Hardy Bryan:

1. Thomas Bryan, d. soon after his father, as his will was recorded Dec. 1760; evidently a son by a first wife, as he is named executor for his father. He married Rachel Lavender, (daughter of William & Rachel (Reman) Lavender) and left issue:

LEWIS BRYAN - North Carolina

Lewis BRYAN

Lewis Bryan is first found in deeds of Nansemond County, Virginia, (See Isle of Wight County Deeds, Book 1, p 16) where on Feb. 8, 1688, "Lewis Bryan of Nansemond County to Henry Gay of Isle of Wight". This signed Lewis Bryan, by mark, The witnesses were, John Bryan, James Daughtie (Daughtry).

In 1711 Lewis bought land in North Carolina, as Edenton records show, "Thomas Harris has power of attorney to convey land known as 'Red Bank' to Lewis Bryan" Dated 15 Jan, 1711.

The Historical and Genealogical Register of North Carolina, (Vol. I, p 151). "In 1717 Lewis Bryan was made a Commissioner of the Peace of Chowan Precinct and took the oath of office, 16 Apr. 1717".

Again the Edenton Records (Book B, No. 1) show that on Sept. 18, 1715, Lewis Bryan proves his right for importation of Symon, Edward, William, Lewis, Elizabeth, Jeanette, Mary, Joanah, Ann, Lewis Jr. and Elizabeth Jr.

Bertie County Deeds, Book A, p 158; 13 Aug. 1723; John Bryan, son of Edward to Lewis Bryan  land lying in Bertie Precinct  640 acres on Chinkapin. This land is deeded later (1741) by Simon and Lewis Jr. to their brother Edward and both deeds state, "Land left me by will of my father, Lewis Bryan", but to date no will for Lewis Bryan Sr. has been found.

Lewis Bryan married Elizabeth Hunter, daughter of Henry Hunter of Surry County. They had issue as given above and records of Simon, Edward, Ann, Elizabeth, Sarah, William and Joseph follow. Also the record of a John Bryan thought to be a son. Joseph and John are not named in the 'headright' list of Lewis for land but the son William who died in 1747, names his brother, Joseph as executor. Joseph and John may have been older sons and provided for by the time Lewis removed to North Carolina.

Bryan Book

William Bryan, son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Hunter) Bryan was born about 1700 and d. in 1747. His will dated Dec. 12, 1746, proved June court 1747, names wife Ann (Delamar); executors son William and brother Joseph Bryan; sons & daughters:

William Bryan
Lewis Bryan
John Bryan
Jesse Bryan
Elizabeth Bryan
Ann Bryan

The will of the wife Ann is dated Oct. 25, 1767, proved Mar. 9, 1773; grand sons, Joseph Stockley and John Dawson; executors, sons William, John and Jesse; she names sons & daughters:

William Bryan
John Bryan
Jesse Bryan
Mary Bryan Cook
Elizabeth Bryan Dawson

Note appended says, "John qualified, William decd".

Ann was Ann de la Mar (now written Delamar) daughter of Francis and Ann (Mayo) Delamar and married, first, Joseph Stockley, who died 1730; they had issue:

Mary Stockley, named as Mary Cook in will of her mother
Isaac Stockley
Joseph Stockley

Ann probably had a second husband, Edward Mayo, as her brother, Stephen Delamar in his will dated 1732, mentions his sister, Ann Stockley, widow of his cousin, Edward Mayo; also mentions nephews, Isaac and Joseph Stockley.

Ann and William Bryan were married 10 Jan. 1733-4, according to records of Perquiman County (Raleigh) and removed to Craven County in 1739. Craven County Deeds, Book 1, p 324; Indenture, 28 Nov. 1739; John West to William Bryan, Gent.  250 acres north side Neuse River, beginning at Powell's Creek, down the River to Island Creek, bound on the west by George Whitaker, on east by William Carraway.

This William is said in early records to be the son of Edward and Christian (Council) Bryan, but as he names a brother Joseph, executor, and this Joseph purchased land from his brother Lewis in 1769, they could not be sons of Edward, as Lewis, son of Edward was deceased by Nov. 1752. William and Ann (Delamar) Stockley Bryan had issue:

1. William Bryan Jr., 1734-1771; killed at the battle of Alamance; wife was Ann Dawson. (Colonial Records, Vol. 9, p 60); "William Bryan killed at battle of Alamance. He was Royal Standard Bearer and fell with the English flag covering him. He left a widow Ann and six small children."

WILLIAM BRYAN Prince Georges County Maryland

William Bryan

This Bryan family of Prince Georges County, and more recently of Bryan's Road and Bryan's Point, Charles County, Maryland, listed, probably in 1772, as of Accokeek, in King George's parish, (St. John's or old Broad Creek Church) begin their record with William Bryan, who was aged 63 years in the 1776 Census of Maryland. The name of his first wife is not known, but she died prior to 1750, as on May 4, 1750, William Bryan and Diana Gutteridge were married at old St. John's, or Piscataway Church at Broad Creek by the Rev. Mr. Henry Addison. Diana, in 1776 was 45 years of age and d. probably between 1776 and 1780, as she is not mentioned in his will, dated June 2, 1781.

John and Richard Bryan listed in this district in the 1776 Census are probably of this same family. Richard was born Oct. 5, 1731 and d. Jan. 11, 1813; his wife Rachel Bryan, whom he married in 1757, is given in Gen. Quart., Vol. 1, p 249, as Rachel Lanham. she died Dec. 18, 1817, age 78 years. (According to their tombstones near Piscataway). 'Richard Bryan Junior' on Jan. 25, 1791, was witness to the will of Captain Edward Lanham, Prince Georges County.

William Bryan d. in June 1781, leaving a will dated June 2, 1781 and recorded June 12, 1781, at Marlboro, Prince Georges County. From his will and the Orphan's Court records we find the names of his children:

1. George Bryan, b. about 1743. (Record follows).
2. William Thomas Bryan, bap. Aug. 25, 1751. (Record follows).
3. Elizabeth Bryan, b. May 22, 1755; not listed in 1776 Census.
4. Richard Bryan, b. Sept. 6, 1757. (Record follows).
5. Sarah Ann, bap. June 12, 1761; not mentioned in will of her father, but listed in 1776 Census.
6. Rebecca, listed in 1776 Census.
7. Philip Bryan, bap. Mar. 22, 1767; probably d. young.
8. Amelia, age 6 yrs. in 1776; 'under age' in father's will.
9. Rachel, bap. Feb. 5, 1772; under age in 1781.

George Bryan, son of William and his first wife, was born about 1742 or 1743, as his age is given as 34 years in the Census of 1776. He married, about 1771, Ann _____, b. 1752, They lived at Accokeek and had issue, besides two sons (aged four and three years in 1776) whose names are not given (but one is thought to have been William), John and Ann, perhaps others.

John, born Feb. 19, 1775, married, Nov. 9, 1802, Elizabeth Lawson. In 1821, John, with Henry and Rebecca Bryan and John Connel, sell property to 'William Bryan of Richard'.

Ann Bryan, born probably after 1776, with William Bryan and Henry Boteler, sell in 1821, their share in above property.

WILLIAM BRYAN Cumberland County, Pa. to Orange County, N. Car.

William Bryan

The ancestry of this William Bryan is as yet undetermined, The late Gordon H.M. Ashe thought that he might be a cousin of William Bryan (1707-1786) of Bucks County, "The Quaker turned Baptist", It is probable that there was some Quaker affiliation, as his wife, Jane Clarke, was of that persuasion and "married out".

Judge John Smith Brien, who died in Nashville, Tenn. in 1867, wrote the following record of his family.

William Bryan, a native of Cumberland County, Pa. married Jane Clarke and emigrated to the Hillsboro settlement, Orange County, N. Car., prior to the Revolution. The dates of his birth and death are not known; he had the following sons and daughters:

James Bryan, married Ann Lytle; moved to Logan County, Ky. in 1798.

William Bryan, d. 1835 in Missouri.

John Bryan, had five children; all dead but John and Cynthia.

Cynthia lives in Orange County, Hillsboro post office.

Elijah Bryan, married Miss, Marshall.

David Bryan, married Miss. Rany; still lives in North Carolina. Hillsboro.

Thomas Bryan, married Polly Baker. (Nov. 20, 1794; probably the youngest son).

Sally Bryan, married William Clarke; to Logan County, Ky. Dead.

Hannah Bryan, married Joseph White; lives in North Carolina.

Nancy Bryan, married Samuel Scott; lives in Orange County, N. Car.

Of these children James Bryan married Ann Lytle, May 11, 1779, removed to Logan County, Kentucky in 1798, where he died Oct. 31, 1815. He served in the Revolution and the town of Briensburg was named for this family. They had issue:

1. Robert Bryan, b. Feb, 28, 1780, d. Jan. 15, 1834; married Mary Grider of Warren County, Ky. They had a son, James H. Bryan, born Jan. 12, 1810, whose son, J. P. Bryan of Benton, Ky., sent the record of the children of James and Ann (Lytle) Bryan.

2. William Bryan, b. Oct. 1, 1781.

3. Daniel Bryan, b. Aug. 26, 1783.

4. Jane Bryan, b. Aug. 9, 1785, m. _____ Mitchell.

5. Lytle Bryan, b. Nov. 10, 1789, d. 1815.

6. James Bryan Jr., b. June 25, 1792. State Senator.

7. Archy Bryan, b. Oct. 2, 1794.

8. John Bryan, b. Dec. 16, 1796, m. Elizabeth Marshall.

9. Hannah Bryan, b. Jan. 22, 1798, d. Jan. 26, 1813.

10. Joseph Bryan, b. Aug. 4, 1802.

11. Fruise E. Bryan, b. Aug. 4, 1802; d. Aug. 23, 1823.

12. Alfred McG. Bryan, b. Aug. 12, 1805. Presbyterian minister.

13. Sarah Bryan, m. _____ Riggs; to Springfield, Ill.

William Bryan, probably the oldest son of William and Jane (Clarke) Bryan, was born 1754, in Orange County, N. Car., according to his pension statement, and d. Sept. 6, 1934 in Boone County, Missouri. (War Pension claim, 16,660). He was captured at the battle of Monk's Corner, S. Car. and held prisoner for several weeks; was at Yorktown and discharged Dec. 1782.

Bryan Book

He stated in his pension application that after the war he lived in Kentucky in the counties of Fayette, Madison, Estill and Montgomery and afterwards in Calloway County, Missouri. He was allowed a pension on his application, June 25, 1833, while a resident of Boone County, Missouri.

His first wife was Rachel Wilcoxin, a niece of Daniel Boone and it is said they had a large family, who use the name 'Bryant'.

The only reference to Elijah Bryan, whose wife was a Marshall, is found in the Colonial Records of North Carolina, Vol. 9, p 809, when, "Elijah Bryan (with others) prays to have the boundaries of Orange County changed."

John Bryan, son of William and Jane (Clarke) Bryan, had five children, according to the record left by Judge John Smith Bryan, but the name of his wife is not given. The children were:

1. John Bryan, living 1867, Hillsboro, N. Car.
2. Cynthia Bryan, living 1867, Hillsboro, N. Car.
3. William Bryan, never married; served in the Creek War with Gen. Jackson; went to Tennessee with his brothers, David and Elisha; d. about 1864, while on a visit to his brother David in Illinois.
4. David Bryan, lived in Tennessee a while, then went to Ill.
5. Elisha Bryan, b. about 1785, record follows:

Elisha Bryan, (son of John) wrote his name 'Brien', according to his signature on his marriage bond and the deed of sale of his Virginia property. He married (1) June 3, 1805, in Campbell County, Va., Lucy Key, who died within the year and he married (2) Mar. 6, 1806, in Campbell County, Ann Smith Milner. (Her mother a cousin of Chief Justice Marshall, through the Smith family). In Sept. 1810, Elisha Brien sold his plantation in Campbell County to John Hancock and moved his family to Smith, now DeKalb County, Tenn. "The twelfth family to settle at Lebanon, Tenn". Ann (Milner) Brien died in 1817 and Elisha married Elizabeth Johnston, Sept. 26, 1818. He died in Sept. or Oct. 1835 and is buried at Brush Creek Baptist Church, about three miles from Alexandria. Elisha and Ann (Milner) Bryan had issue:

1. John Smith Bryan, b. 1807, in Campbell County, Va., d. at Nashville, Tenn. Nov. 6, 1867; was one of the noted jurists of his time; Chancellor of the State of Tenn., 1851-53.

BRIEN - O'BRIEN Berks County, Pa.

Brien O'Brien

Brien O'Brien, from County Clare, Ireland, settled in Berks County, Pennsylvania, in 1724, with three sons. Nothing further is known of him. The sons were:

Cornelius O'Brien
Brien O'Brien Jr.
William O'Brien

Cornelius O'Brien, probably the oldest son, settled in Virginia, Augusta County, the part now Rockingham, where he purchased land from Jost Hite, June 24, 1744. With him in the years 1744-46, were John, Benjamin, Peter, Thomas and William, sons and grand sons. His will dated; Mar. 30, 1751, proved May 28, 1751, (Augusta County Wills, Book 1, p 330; also see Chalkley, Vol. 3, p 21), "Cornelius O'Brien, Yeoman", wife Rebecca; sons John and Cornelius; son Thomas' eldest son Benjamin; remainder of children. Wife Rebecca is executor. Witnesses were, James Williams, Joseph Bryan and Jacob Gum.

In 1751, after the death of Cornelius, his sons, John, Cornelius and Thomas are added to tithables. (Chalkley, Vol. 3, p 47).

In 1762 the sons of Cornelius divide the estate, as per following deeds. Bryan Book

Brien O'Brien Jr.

The name in this line is often written Bryan O'Bryan, but his children as a rule used the form O'Brien.

Mr. Michael J. O'Brien, Historiographer of the American-Irish Society, in an article for the Magazine of that Society, (1928) says:

"Bryan O'Bryan received no mention from the historians of Berks or any neighboring county, aside from an entry in the Parish register of the Lutheran Church at New Hanover, Pa, The first appearance of the name is in the tax + lists of Douglas Township for the year 1774, and on Aug. 6, 1777, Bryan O'Bryan took the Oath of Allegiance with others. (Oath of Allegiance Book, Vol, 1, Book D, Reading, Pa.) In 1779, he is listed in a Registry of Property of the Inhabitants of Berks County, recorded as 'Bryan Brian O' and his occupation as a 'forgeman'".

"Although his name does not appear on the Revolutionary War Rolls at Washington or Harrisburg, he evidently served in the Berks County Militia under Captain Samuel Sands in 1778, as a receipt, dated Aug. 31, 1778 and signed by Abraham Lincoln (a great uncle of the President) reads, 'Rec'd of Bryan O'Bryan five pounds for his Delinquency in the 4th Class in Capt. Samuel Sands Company".

Mr. O'Brien also says:

"Cannon for Washington's Army were made in Berks and Chester Counties and since it would appear from his occupation as 'Forgeman' that Brian O'Brien had some connection with the iron mines, This is perhaps the reason his name is not found on Revolutionary War rolls".

After 1795 he removed to Rockingham County, Va., then to Sullivan County, Tenn. with his son James, where he died in 1825 at a very advanced age, He married (1) a daughter of David Potts of Berks County; (2) Feb, 2, 1773, Mary Ann Thomas at New Hanover, Pa. He had issue:

BRYAN FAMILIES ON WHICH MORE DATA IS DESIRED

William Bryan & Simon Bryan - South Carolina

William Bryan and wife Elizabeth Moore removed from North Carolina prior to the Revolutionary War. He had a brother, Simon, who married Ann Moore, sister of Elizabeth (daughters of Thomas and Sarah Moore of New Bern) who probably accompanied him in the move to South Carolina, Two of his grand children, Joseph and Thirza Allen, married Sarah BE, and Simon Bryan, grand children of William,

For their service in the Revolution, Joseph, Lewis and William Bryan received payment, dated Oct. 6, 1786, for military duty. (See S. Car. Stub Entries to Indents, by A. S. Salley, Book 10, p 193) Stubs numbered 3885, 3886, 3887, 3888.

Again Simon and William Bryan received payment Aug. 3, 1785; (Same, Book W, Stubs 84-5-6-7) for duty as horsemen, 1781-2.

These men, Joseph, William, Simon and Lewis are thought to be sons of a Lewis Bryan and wife Sarah, Lewis the son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Hunter) Bryan of Nansemond County, Va., who removed to North Carolina about 1715.

The Craven County Court Minutes, Mar. Court, 1771, show that Sarah, wife of Lewis Bryan, came into Court and applied for Letters of Administration on estate of her deceased husband. Granted, June 12, 1771.

William and Elizabeth (Moore) Bryan had issue:

John C. Bryan, b. May 6, 1817.

Simon Bryan and Ann (Moore) Bryan had issue:

Elizabeth Bryan, b. Oct. 18, 1775.
Simon Bryan, b. Aug. 13, 1778.
Sarah A. Bryan, b. Oct. 15, 1781, m. Joseph Allen.
William Bryan, b. Mar. 23, 178k.
John Bryan, b. May 9, 1792.
Frederick Bryan, b. Aug. 23, 1799.

The grandsons of Simon used the name 'Council'. The son of Sarah was Council Bryan Allen and her brother William, called a son John Council Bryan. William and Elizabeth (Moore) Bryan had a grand son, Council Allen Bryan.

Craven County Deeds show that in 1766 a Lewis Bryan bought 73 acres of land from Thomas Moore, situated in Clayroot Swamp in the fork of Creeping Swamp. The witnesses were Simon Bryan and William Bryan. Then the deeds show (Book 16, p 214) June 5, 1769; Lewis Bryan, for love and affection to our beloved son Frederick, a tract of land, held by patent from Thomas Moore Jr., dated Oct. 20, 1762, containing 73 acres in bent of Clayroot etc; cattle, horses etc. Signed Lewis Bryan. The witnesses to this were Richard Bryan and Simon Bryan.

In 1763, Lewis Bryan gives to son William, 100 acres, north side of Neuse River, called Beasley's Island, which he bought of William Charlton, as per following deed Craven County Deeds, Book 1, p 456; Jan. 6, 1751; William Charlton to Lewis Bryan, Cooper;  200 acres of land north side of Neuse River, called Beasley's Island  part of Oxford Beasley's patent of 1745.

In 1725, a Lewis Bryan, Cooper, sold his land in Bertie County, North Carolina, and it is probable that he is the 'Lewis Bryan, Cooper', who appears in Craven County Deeds.

JOHN BRYAN, JAMES BRYAN, JESSE BRYAN - Shelby County Ohio

John Bryan

Records of the Bryan families of Shelby County, Ohio, are very meager, in so far as county histories are concerned. Jesse Bryan, James Bryan and John Bryan were early settlers. The line of Jesse Bryan has been traced definitely back to Culpeper County, Virginia. James and John, probably brothers, came from Hampshire County, Virginia.

(Sutton's History of Shelby County, p 183) shows John Bryan a trustee of Salem Township, 1820-24. The Road Tax for Perry Twp. (Same. p 210) shows James and John Bryan. The Poll Book for June 28, 1817 to Oct. 13, 1818 gives John Bryan and Apr. 5, 1819, both James and John Bryan are listed.

(Sutton's History of Shelby County, p 352) "In Clinton Township, when the first Methodist Church was organized in 1825, the first members were George Poole and wife; John Bryan and wife; Mother McVey; Father DeFrees and Joel Frankenberger and wife at whose home the meeting was held".

Miami County Deeds (Shelby from Miami 1820) show that John and James Bryan purchased of James Dingman, Sept. 27, 1816, lots in the town of Dingmansburg. (Book 3, p 173-5).

(Same, Book 4, p 54) John Bryan and Nancy his wife give a quit claim deed to Henry Poole of Hampshire County, Va.  being 150 acres in south end of above section (Frac. Sec. 23, T 4, R 6 east) bequeathed by Robert Poole in his last will and testament to his son Robert Poole.

(Same, Book 4, p 563) Aug. 21, 1819; Indenture between John Bryan and Nancy of the County of Shelby and George Poole of said County and Isaac Davenport of Clarke County, executor of Robert Poole decd;  John & Nancy sell to George Poole, Isaac Davisson et. al., land in Miami County, 50 acres bequeathed by said Robert Poole to George Poole.

John Bryan was born Dec. 25, 1783 in Virginia and d. Mar. 1852 in Shelby County. He entered land from the United States and Deed Book 1, p 269, shows that he paid in full for 160 acres, Dec. 9, 1822; part of the N. W. quart. Sec. 3, T 1, R 13. He married first, about 1808, Susanna Poole in Hampshire County, Va. (present West Virginia) said to be the daughter of William Poole, who died 1808. His second wife was Nancy Galloway of Greene County, b. Jan. 12, 1799, d. Aug. 1380. She was the daughter of Joseph Galloway, pioneer settler and Revolutionary soldier.

GANO

The Rev. John Gano, "Fighting Chaplain", was born in Hopewell, New Jersey, July 22, 1726, of French Huguenot descent. He was educated at Princeton; organized and was pastor of the First Baptist Church in New York City in 1762 and for a number of years was in charge of a church in Philadelphia. He entered the Continental Army at the beginning of the Revolution and earned his title by always going with his regiment into battle. He served until the close of the war, then returned to his church in New York City, remaining there until 1786, when he emigrated to Kentucky, where he became the first Chaplain of the Kentucky legislature.

In 1916 the bodies of the Rev. John Gano and his wife were removed from the old Forks of Elkhorn burial ground to Frankfort, Ky. On the old grave stones of Kentucky marble which were also removed, the following inscriptions in quaint old lettering are still legible. "Sacred to the memory of the Rev. John Gano, who departed this life the tenth day of August A. D. 1804 in the 78th year of his age"  "Sacred to the memory of Sarah Gano, wife of the Rev. John Gano, who departed this life April 22 A. D. 1795 in the 57th year of her age".

In the "Memoirs of the Rev. John Gano", published in New York in 18006, by his son Stephen Gano, pp 122-3, (Copy in Cincinnati Public Library) find, "The next fall (1789) I received a letter from a friend in North Carolina,  Here I found and obtained another companion. She was the widow of Captain Thomas Bryant and daughter of Col. Jonathan Hunt", Ibid, p 124, "The September following (1793) I returned to Kentucky but without Mrs. Gano, as she was not then ready to remove, The next spring I went to North Carolina but found it would be inconvenient for my wife to remove before fall. I therefore made a visit to New York and Rhode Island, accompanied by my wife's son, Morgan Bryant".

The first wife of the Rev. John Gano was Sarah Stites of New Jersey, by whom he had eleven children. The second son, Capt. Daniel Gano, (1753-1842) married first, Jemima Robinson. His second wife was MARTHA BRYAN, daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Hunt) Bryan and their daughter, Mary Forbes Gano, b. Jan, 11, 1803, d. Sept. 4, 1904, married first, LEWIS H. BRYAN; second, Elias Cobb, a Baptist minister.

Rowan County, N. Car. Marriages, show that Sarah Bryan and the Rev. John Gano were married Apr. 15, 1793.

HUNT

From a Genealogy of Early Settlers in Trenton And Ewing. Cooley.

In the company of Englishmen who came to long Island in 1652 to settle the Town of Newtown, was RALPH HUNT, son of Thomas Hunt of England, a colonel under Cromwell in 1645. Ralph Hunt was one of the seven patentees to whom a grant of land on which Newtown was built, was made by Governor General Nicholl. He died in 1577, leaving the following children:

1. Ralph Hunt, removed to Jamacia,.
2. Edward Hunt, d. in Newtown in 1716. (Record follows).
3. John Hunt, a magistrate.
4. Samuel Hunt.
5. Mary Hunt.

Tubb

This family came from England in colonial days and many of the name are to be found in the New England States, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

James Tubb of Greenville, South Carolina, said to be a Revolutionary soldier, is thought to have emigrated from Pennsylvania, His wife was Polly Fisher and they had issue, eleven children:

1. Abraham Tubb, m. Polly Lancaster.
2. John Tubb, m. Polly Benson.
3. Nicholas Tubb, m. Rhoda Lancaster.
4. George Tubb, m. Patsy Corley.
5. Samuel Tubb, m. Polly Terry.
6. Thomas Tubb, m. Malinda Decker.
7. James Tubb, m. Elizabeth Reynolds.
8. William Tubb, m. Minerva _____.
9. Polly Tubb, m. _____ Lancaster.
10. Didame Tubb, m. Isaac Bater.
11. Peggy Tubb, m. John Barnett.

All of these children, with their families, except James Jr., moved to Mississippi and from there to Texas, before the Civil War. Nicholas Tubb and his family started to Texas in 1850, but all d. of cholera on the way but one-son and one daughter.

Nicholas Tubb, son of George, was living in Quincy, Miss. in 1915, aged then 74 years.

Condie Tubb, son of John, lived in Aberdeen, Miss.

James Tubb Jr., later Col. James Tubb, was one of the pioneers and best known men of DeKalb County, Tenn. (See History of DeKalb County, Will T. Hale, pp 104; 152-3). He was born Mar. 18, 1788 and d. July 18, 1867. He lived on Smith's Fork Creek, east of Alexandria and north of Liberty. He was possessed of hundreds of acres of fine land and as he would not separate the families of his slaves, when emancipated, numbered almost one hundred. He made up a company from his county for the War of 1812 and financed it.

From records in the State Archives the following facts are gleaned. As Captain of the 2nd Regiment of Militia, his Commission bears date, June 3, 1811, signed at Knoxville by Gov. Willie Blount; as 1st Major of the 41st Regiment, his Commission was signed at Nashville by Gov. Joseph McMinn; as Colonel of the last named, was dated Feb. 10, 1829, by Gov. Sam. Houston.

Waters

The Waters family, so closely allied with the Bryan family of Wilson County, Tenn., stems from James Waters of Maryland, who had sons, Shelah, Enoch and Moses.

Shelah Waters was born in 1768 and d. Mar. 29, 1860; he married, Nov. 1, 1789, Nancy Turner, 1770-1827. They settled first in Culpeper County, Va., then moved west of the Blue Ridge, where he remained until 1811, then moved into Wilson County, Tenn., near Statesville.

Shelah and Nancy (Turner) Waters had issue:

1. Catharine Waters, b. Nov. 20, 1790, married, 1809, _____ Oakley.
2. Anne Waters, b. Apr. 10, 1792, d. May 15, 1868, married Richard Cartwright.
3. Wilson T. Waters, b. Nov. 14, 1793, d. Feb. 22, 1879; m. _____ Lawrence.
4. George Waters, b. Sept. 30, 1795, d. Sept. 1871.
5. Shelah Waters, b. June 10, 1797, Mar. 1847.

Joseph Bryan, m. Eleanor Evans.
Susan Bryan, never married.
Mary B. Bryan, m. Richard Grice.
Elizabeth Bryan, 1807-1870; m. 1824, Elijah Bryan, 1793-1852.

The Blackshear Record states that after the death of Edward, she removed to Georgia; "Had five sons, John & Edward to Florida; James to Twiggs County, Ga.; William & Joseph to Early County, Ga.

Lewis Bryan, m. Elizabeth Hunter; their son:

Joseph Bryan, m. Sarah Maule; their son:

Edward Bryan, 1769-1823; m. Penelope Blackshear, 1773-1839; issue:

Blackshear Record - "Penelope, b. Apr. 13, 1773, d. 1839; married Edward Bryan who died 1823 in Twiggs County, Ga,  The late Elijah Bryan of Florida is her son. Thomas J, and Blackshear of Twiggs County were sons and Jeanette, wife of Robert Hodges is her daughter".

Bryan Book

Thomas Bryan

As Thomas Bryan, son of Morgan, has often, even in recent years been called a 'Tory' by writers, the following account of the battle of the Shallow Ford, where a Captain Bryan was killed, is of interest.

In the Draper Mss. 8 c 43, (State Historical Society of Wisconsin) is a letter, dated Feb, 17, 1887, to the editor of the 'Landmark' (evidently a paper published in Davie County, N. Car.) signed by D. M. Furches.

Parts of the letter follow.

In Revolutionary times, what is now Davie County was a part of Rowan and known as the "Forks", lying as it does in the forks or prongs of the north and south Yadkin Rivers,  The home of such families as Pearson, Clements, Gaithers, Ellisons, Cook and many others from whom some of our most distinguished Jurists and statesmen have come.  but among them was a large and influential family by name of Bryan, This family was extensive and wealthy for that day, but they were all loyalists, Tories. One of them being the celebrated Colonel Bryan, who had the fight with Richmond Pearson. Another was known as Captain Bryan, who raised a Tory Company for the protection of the loyalists in the Forks. The Forks being about equally divided between Whigs and Tories,  Captain Francis called his company of Whigs out and started down the Yadkin to disband Bryan's Company; neither Bryan or Francis knew the other was on the march. This has since been called "The battle ground branch", about 1/2 mile west of the town of Huntsville, and one mile west of the Shallow Ford on the Yadkin River,  As Captain Bryan moved up the Yadkin on his way to what turned out to be the battle of the Shallow Ford, when ever he came upon a young man with avowed Whip principles, he took him 'a prisoner of war', and among those so taken was a young man by the name of Robin Horn, Captain Bryan, not lone before the battle had married Sallie Howell, a beautiful young Whig girl, an Aunt of Stephen L. Howell, who died in Statesville about two years ago. She by will or some other way succeeded to the estate of Captain Bryan on Dutchman's Creek, seven miles above Mocksville. She remained a widow until after peace was de , and Robin Horn, the prisoner of her husband at the time he was killed, returned home and soon after his return she and Robin were married and settled on her estate and raised a large family. One son was Howell Horn".

No place in this letter is Captain Bryan called 'Thomas', but in the Court Minutes of Rowan County, May 9, 1782, mention is made of the estate of Thomas Bryan, Sarah Bryan Admx. "Sales to date 774 pounds".

As Thomas Bryan, son of Morgan, was called Captain, and his wife was also Sarah (Hunt), that is probably the cause of the confusion. This Thomas Bryan killed at the battle of the Shallow Ford was perhaps the son of Captain John Bryan, son of Morgan, who was killed by Fanning, while home on furlough.
