034--Dobbs County

Formed 1758 from the eastern portion of Johnston County. It was abolished in 1791 when Glasgow (Greene) and Lenoir counties were formed. Lenoir County succeeded to the records of Dobbs County, and they were destroyed when the Lenoir County courthouse burned in 1878 and 1880. The wills cited as from Dobbs County are from the secretary of state wills or certified copies filed in another county.

035--Duplin County

Formed 1750 from New Hanover County. Recording of wills in separate will books began in 1830. The record book containing wills for the period 1835-1845 is missing, although approximately 50 original wills for that period have survived. At a later date, surviving unrecorded wills proved before 1830 and filed in the clerk's office were entered in a record book identified as will Book A. These generally include wills proved before the county court between about 1760 and 1830, although a few wills probated later than 1830 were included. Some very early wills (1750-1766) were recorded in early registers which remained in Sampson County when it was created from Duplin in 1784; these record books are now identified as Sampson County Deed Books 1, 2, and 3 and are so noted in entries for Duplin County.

036--Durham County

Formed 1881 from Orange and Wake Counties. Recording of wills began immediately, and there has been no significant loss of records. As of April 1, 1986, all original wills were in the custody of the Durham County clerk of superior court.

037--Edgecombe County

Formed 1741 from Bertie County. Recording of wills began in 1760. The original wills for 1884 and 1885 are missing; with this exception, there has been no significant loss of records in the county. Most of the wills that were not recorded (as indicated by "Orig. Only" in the "Recorded Copy" column) were not accepted by the county court and thus were never probated.

038--Forsyth County

Formed 1849 from Stokes County. There has been no significant loss of either recorded or original wills of the county. Many of the wills proved in Stokes County before 1849 were for testators who lived in that portion of the county that became Forsyth.

039--Franklin County

Formed 1779 from Bute County. Although recording of wills appears to have started with formation of the county, neither the registered copy nor the original will, in many instances, show the probate date. Until 1868 wills were recorded with other estate documents such as inventories, reports of sale, and division of real and personal property in registers that are now identified as will books. Will Books O and P were relabeled "Record of Accounts" after they were copied; the originals of these two volumes are in the State Archives in the estates classification of records of the county. Will Book P contains no wills; there is no Will Book T. Although there has been no significant loss of records of the county, some of the original wills are missing.

040--Gaston County

Formed 1846 from Lincoln County. A courthouse fire in December, 1874, resulted in the destruction of some records. The will books appear to be complete, but some of the early original wills are missing.

041--Gates County

Formed 1779 from Chowan, Hartford, and Perquimans counties. Recording of wills began immediately, and there has been no significant loss of either recorded or original wills of the county.

042--Glasgow County

Formed 1791 from Dobbs County. Name changed to Greene County in 1799. No records of Glasgow County are known to have survived.

043--Graham County

Formed 1872 from Cherokee County. Recording of wills appears to have started about 1886, but virtually none of the original wills survived.

044--Granville County

Formed 1746 from Edgecombe County. Surviving will record books date from 1772, although original wills that were probated at an earlier date indicate that they were recorded. After 1772 there has been no significant loss of either recorded or original wills of the county. As of June 1, 1985, all original wills were in the custody of the Granville County clerk of superior court.
