Exceptions to the report of the auditor

Exception first: That the auditor has calculated compound interest on the whole sum which came into his hands of the guardian from April 1818 up to April 1830. Whereas the auditor ought to have deducted the several ??? to his ward acct of the aggregate sum before he commenced calculating compound interest.

Exception second: that the auditor ought to have allowed the guardian commissions on the various sums paid & advanced for the use of his ward.

Exception third: The auditor ought have deducted the sum advanced from the aggregate amount at the several records they were advanced whereas he has calculated compound interest on the whole sum disregarding the sums advanced.
